

Dunbar

Above the sand beach on the north side of Grave Cove approximately 13 graves with rock headstones which have now toppled. Any writing has eroded away. Most likely are graves of sealers from the 18th and 19th Century. Only one was identified in 1836 as being that of an American, the captain of a sealing vessel, who had died some years before.

