May 5th 1922.

Your Excellency.

Please accept my heartfelt thanks for your telegram and kind sympathy in my great sorrow - I have always been grateful for the kindness shown to my beloved husband by the Governor and people of the Falkland Islands when he was trying to rescue his men in 1916 - and your message of sympathy towards me none here can express - It has been a shattering blow, and it is hard to be brave, now, when I can no longer count the days till his return.

Yours very sincerely
Erily Shackleton.

21st June,

Sir,

I am directed by the Governor to transmit to you, for the favour of publication, a copy of a telegram sent by His Excellency on behalf of the people of the Colony to Lady Shackleton on the 15th March last together with the answer which has been received.

2. The Governor is of the opinion that the touching reply from Lady Shackleton will be read with much sympathy and it will deepen the sense of the loss of a very gallant explorer, who lies buried in South Georgia.

I am,

Sir,

Your obedient servant

Colonial Secretary.

The Editor,

The Falkland Islands Magazine,

Stanley.
