RULES and REGULATIONS

In Divorce and Matrimonial Causes,

THE FALKLAND ISLANDS.

Made on the 18th day of April, 1900, under Her Majesty's Order in Council of the 28th of November, 1899, instituting a Court of Divorce and Matrimonial Causes in the Falkland Islands.

1.—“Respondent” shall, in these Rules, include all co-respondents in so far as the term is applicable to them.

2.—Proceedings shall be commenced by depositing with the Registrar a Petition (Form 1) verified before the Chief Justice in Chambers by affidavit deposing to the truth of the facts of which the Petitioner has personal cognizance, and deposing to belief in the truth of the other facts alleged therein. The Registrar will, on obtaining the Chief Justice's approval, enter the facts alleged in such Petition in the Action book, and issue the necessary citations (Form 2).

3.—A citation, together with a copy, certified by the Registrar of every such Petition, shall be served, at the expense of the Petitioner in such manner as the Chief Justice may, in each case, direct, i. e., either personally, or by Registered Letter, or by Advertisement in a Newspaper, upon the respondent and upon every person whom the Petitioner is required by Law to make a co-respondent. Should the name of any alleged adulterer be unknown to the Petitioner at the time of depositing the Petition, and afterwards become known to him, he must amend the Petition by inserting the name, and a copy of the amended Petition must be served as aforesaid.

4.—A Respondent may appear, by an Advocate, or Attorney, or in person, before the Registrar and enter an answer in the Action book or if not resident in the Falkland Islands may file an affidavit replying to a Petition and a copy of every such answer or affidavit shall be served by such respondent on the Petitioner.

5.—Application for leave to intervene in any cause must be made to the Chief Justice by Petition supported by affidavit.

6.—The Chief Justice shall fix a day for the hearing of any cause on being satisfied that the service has been made as directed and that the respondents have had sufficient time to prepare answers, and the day so fixed shall be notified by the Registrar to each of the Resident parties concerned by personal service and to non-Resident parties in such manner as the Chief Justice may order.

7.—Affidavits, in answer to the facts alleged in any Petition, may, with the consent of the Chief Justice, on his being satisfied that the alleged facts are set forth in such a manner as to assist the Jury in arriving at a just conclusion, be accepted at the trial from witnesses absent from the Colony, but the Chief Justice may direct that any such witness be examined by Commission.

8.—Any application for a new trial of issues of fact tried by a Jury, or for a re-hearing of a cause may be made by Petition within 14 days from the day of hearing if the Petitioner be resident, or 120 days if the Petitioner be non-Resident.

9.—Any person wishing to show cause against making absolute a decree nisi for dissolution of a Marriage shall state to the Registrar the facts upon which he relies, or file an affidavit setting forth such facts, and the Registrar shall enter such facts in the Action book, and the Chief Justice may, if he thinks fit, direct any controverted questions of fact so raised to be tried by a special Jury at the time of hearing the application to make absolute any such decree nisi.

10.—All applications, to make absolute a decree nisi for dissolution of a Marriage, must be made to the Court by motion.

NOTE.—A decree nisi can only be made absolute after six months.

Report of Commodore on Volunteer Force, April, 1900.

H. M. S. "Flora" at sea,
11th April, 1900.

Sir,

In accordance with the instructions contained in Article XIII of my Confidential Standing Orders, I have the honour to inform you that I inspected the Falkland Islands Volunteers on March 30th last, and beg to report as follows:—

2.—The force consists of 4 Officers (including the Chaplain and Surgeon) and 82 Non-Commissioned Officers and men, of which latter some 14 are old soldiers. At my inspection however only 23 men were present, the remainder being variously employed in the town and surrounding sheep farms.

3.—The drills I witnessed were fairly well carried out, but with so small a detachment very little could be done.

4.—I was informed by the Commanding Officer (Lieutenant C. W. Hill) that during last season, viz., 1898—99, 41 men passed in Musketry, and this year 36 men have already completed their course.

5.—I inspected the two 9 pounder M.L. guns belonging to the force, and was informed that they had not been used for practice since April, 1899. Although mounted on horse carriages no harness is supplied, and when in use they have been dragged by the men themselves. They are apparently only taken out of the shed once a year, and no regular crews are told off for them.

6.—I do not consider that at present the Falkland Islands Volunteers can be considered an efficient defensive force. The movement generally does not seem to have met with much encouragement from employers of labour, otherwise the numbers might be largely increased, as I understand that in Stanley alone there are some 200 men fit to join.

7.—In any case its utility would be purely local, and I would therefore recommend that instead of Infantry pure and simple, the Corps should take the form of Mounted Infantry (the men are all good riders) and should be armed with the Lee-Metford instead of the Martini-Henry as at present.

8.—Further it would seem desirable that employers of labour and Managers of Stations in the Camp (that is Country) should be induced to take an interest in the scheme. By this means local detachments officered by persons having direct control over the men could be formed on all the principal Stations, where such drills as were necessary could be performed without interrupting the daily work, and in case of emergency they could be quickly concentrated at any given point.

I have, &c.,

Report by Commodore on Volunteer Force, April 1900.

Memorandum by the Colonial Defence Committee.

THE Colonial Office, at the request of the Admiralty, have referred to the Colonial Defence Committee a Report, dated the 11th April, 1900, from the Commodore, South-East Coast of America, on an inspection of the Falkland Islands Volunteers held on the 30th March, 1900.

2. The Report is not satisfactory. The desire to contribute seriously to the defence of the Empire which has been so strongly manifested in the United Kingdom and in nearly all the Colonies during the last six months has apparently not reached the Falkland Islands, where the Volunteer movement appears hitherto to have met with little success and to receive no encouragement from employers of labour. This may possibly be due to a want of realization by the people in the Falkland Islands of the part that can be played by local troops in the Crown Colonies in the general scheme of Imperial Defence. Though the special conditions of these Colonies will not, as a rule, permit of their sending forces away from them to co-operate with Imperial troops in offensive operations in distant parts of the world, they may render very material service to the Empire by strengthening or establishing the local defence of its outlying parts. In some of these Colonies are Imperial fortresses and coaling-stations, on which the efficiency of Her Majesty's Navy in the surrounding seas must depend. At these, Imperial garrisons are maintained; but the many calls on the British Army compel these garrisons to be kept up at a minimum strength, and it is of great importance that they should be supplemented by trained local troops. While the strategic importance of other Colonies does not justify a dispersion of Imperial troops for their defence, it is necessary both to protect themselves and to assist in the maintenance of the Empire's prestige, that they should be in a position to offer resistance to the hostile demands of an enemy's raiding cruiser; the effectiveness of such resistance must depend on the organization and training in peace of a sufficient local force.

3. The Falkland Islands, where there is at present no Imperial garrison, come into the latter category. Though the population is small, it is, being nearly entirely British, sufficient to provide an effective defence for the East Island against the very limited form of attack to which it is liable. A couple of hundred good shots trained as mounted infantry, or partly as mounted infantry and partly as infantry, should have little difficulty in capturing any party that might be landed from a hostile cruiser, and would thus effectively maintain British prestige, and preserve for the use of the British Navy and mercantile marine an important coaling-station.

4. The Committee have departed from their usual practice in this instance by not marking this memorandum "Secret," and they recommend that the Governor be instructed to give to it such publicity as he thinks fit.

The accompanying letter which has been addressed to Managers of Camp Stations, is printed for general information.

By Command,
W. HART BENNETT,
Colonial Secretary.

STANLEY, 30th November, 1900.

SIR,

We have the honour to transmit for your consideration the enclosed copy of a report of a meeting held in Stanley to consider the recommendations of the Colonial Defence Committee and the report of the Commodore as to the Falkland Islands Volunteers with a view to increasing both the numbers and utility of the force.

As to the importance of maintaining the Force in an efficient condition, it is self-evident and any doubts which may have existed on the subject at one time will have been dispelled by the recent operations in the Transvaal and Orange Free State, where, side by side with the permanent Forces of Her Majesty, have fought Colonial contingents and Volunteers. Loyalty to Queen and country is as strong in these Islands as in any part of Her Majesty's dominions, and that the desire to render efficient assistance in an hour of need is bound up with our loyalty cannot be doubted.

It therefore behoves us to do all in our power to further the Volunteer movement, to demonstrate to the world that we are not behind the other Colonies in our organisation and efficiency, and you will see from the Report of the meeting that the utmost importance is attached to carrying the "Camp" with us in the matter.

The steps proposed to be taken in furtherance of the movement are as follows:—

- To afford more facilities for practice in shooting and cheap ammunition, with a liberal free issue,
- encourage Volunteers in the camp to practice at their Stations,
- hold an Annual Rifle Meeting once a year in Stanley, and offer substantial prizes for which all Camp Volunteers shall be eligible,
- encourage Volunteers in the camp to form small detachments of Mounted Infantry,

Any other suggestions calculated to increase the popularity of the Corps will be welcomed and receive most careful consideration, but in the first instance we shall be glad if you will carefully consider the papers now sent and state to what extent the Station can co-operate, giving information as to

How many men will join the force?

How many men would undertake systematic rifle practice if provided with rifles without necessarily joining the force?

How many men would join a Corps of Mounted Infantry?

So much depends in the matter upon the hearty co-operation of the heads of Stations that we trust you will enter into the spirit of the movement and do all in your power to ensure the co-operation of those under you.

We have the honour to be, &c.,

C. W. APPLEYARD,
G. P. HAYES,
H. H. SEDGWICK.

Minutes of Committee Meeting, OCTOBER 19th, 1900.

THIS meeting, held in the Court House, was attended by a full Committee, elected at a general meeting held on the 8th inst., to discuss the best means to further the Volunteer movement in the Falkland Islands. The following were present:—

HON. C. W. APPLEYARD, HON. VERE PACKE, HON. W. A. HARDING, HON. DR. S. HAMILTON, The Very Rev. DEAN BRANDON, G. P. HAYES, Esq., W. C. GIRLING, Esq., Lieut. F. DUROSE, 2nd-Lieut. M. CRAIGIE-HALKETT, Sergt.-Instr. DAVIES, Messrs. F. W. STREET, E. HOLT, and H. H. SEDGWICK.

On the proposal of Lt. F. Durose, seconded by Mr. F. W. Street, Mr. Hayes was unanimously voted to the Chair, Mr. Sedgwick acting as Secretary. The Chairman in the course of his remarks explained that the object of the meeting was to come to some decision as to the best course to be adopted to improve in numbers and efficiency the Islands' forces for the purposes of defence. At the general meeting the opinion expressed went to prove that the idea of a mounted infantry detachment in Stanley was impracticable, but he thought that that opinion did not apply to the different camps where the scheme was both practicable and of utility and he invited the opinions of the members present.

Sergt.-Instr. Davies said that if the formation of the mounted detachments in the camps proved successful they would be of great value, mounted men with a knowledge of the camps being able to concentrate at a given place at short notice.

Lieut. Durose suggested that the first step that should be taken was to collect information as to what inducement would be held out to men joining in the camp and to what extent the Imperial Government would help to further the scheme. He also touched upon the subject of cost of ammunition for rifle practice and suggested that this be ascertained by the Committee.

The Hon. C. W. Appleyard promised to ask His Excellency the Governor about this and thought that if the ammunition was not free it should be at a low cost.

The Hon. W. A. Harding said he thought that the men in the camp should know first what was required of them, and in his opinion that if rifles were distributed the shooting should come first and the drill be a secondary item. He explained that the Falkland Islands Company camps were the largest and most available for help of this sort and promised his hearty support to the movement in the camps under his control.

The Chairman next asked the Sergt.-Instr. for details as to ammunition expended by the Volunteers and for his opinion as to the quantity now granted being sufficient to enable a Volunteer to become a marksman. The Sergeant explained that 60 rounds were furnished each member to enable him to become efficient, but on being further questioned admitted that members of the Stanley Rifle Club generally used 21 rounds for about 26 consecutive Saturdays, which enabled them in most cases to become good shots.

The Hon. C. W. Appleyard said he was certain that His Excellency would do everything in his power to obtain a sufficient supply of ammunition to enable the members to become marksmen. It was generally agreed after some discussion that the present regulation 60 rounds supplemented by 120 rounds for practice would go further toward the object in view, members of the old Stanley Rifle Club using often over some 500 rounds at their own expense to obtain the same ends.

The Chairman proposed that to improve the shooting an Annual Rifle Meeting should be held in May when members residing in the camp could compete as well as Stanley, and that substantial prizes should be given. Seconded by the Hon. C. W. Appleyard; carried unanimously.

The question of the most serviceable rifle was next entered upon and the Hon. Dr. S. Hamilton gave his opinion on the effective stopping power of the Martini-Henry and the Lee-Metford bullet. It was generally agreed that the choice of the rifle could safely be left in the hands of experts at home. On remarks being made as to encouragement given by employers of labour, Messrs. W. A. Harding, Vere Packe, and G. P. Hayes, the Chairman, all promised the fullest support that lay in their power.

The question of uniforms for camp members was also entered upon and some ideas were given as to a uniform corresponding with other of our Colonies as suitable to the climate here. Suggestions were also made as to an improvement in the present Volunteer uniform and to the necessity for overcoats, gloves and leggings.

The Chairman said he thought that some encouragement might be given to the movement by holding Athletic Sports annually and was informed by the Sergt.-Instr. that they had previously been held by the Colonists, but from lack of interest had been allowed to drop out since 1895.

The Hon. W. A. Harding said there was still about £10 in the Savings Bank belonging to a Sports Committee which might come in later on when sports were started again.

Mr. F. W. Street said he thought that Smoking Concerts and entertainments of that sort, on the lines they were carried out at home, would be beneficial in bringing the members together and uniting them and maintaining their interest in the corps.

The question of the Gymnasium for Volunteers and Drill Hall also was entered upon but necessarily from lack of time was but slightly discussed.

Mr. W. C. Girling asked whether steps were not now being taken to increase the numbers of Volunteers in Stanley and the Hon. C. W. Appleyard suggested that more facilities should be given to those desirous of joining and a notice issued stating the hours at which such persons could be sworn in.

It was unanimously agreed that a circular be sent embodying these minutes to the several camp managers asking their assistance to further the movement generally so that the Falkland Islands shall not rank as the only Colony that has not responded to the Imperial scheme of defence.

The Hon. C. W. Appleyard, G. P. Hayes, Esq., and H. H. Sedgwick were elected to forward an appeal to the camps generally to effect this purpose, another meeting being necessary after answers were received from camps.

CONVENTION BETWEEN THE UNITED KINGDOM AND THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA RELATIVE TO THE DISPOSAL OF REAL AND PERSONAL PROPERTY.

Signed at Washington, March 2nd, 1899.

[Ratifications exchanged at Washington, July 28th, 1900.]

HER Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and the United States of America, desiring to improve the condition of the subjects and citizens of each of the respective countries in relation to the tenure and disposition of real and personal property situated, or being within, the territories of the other, as well as to authorise the representation of deceased persons by the Consuls of their respective nations in the settlement of estates, have resolved to conclude a Convention for those purposes, and have named as their Plenipotentiaries:

Her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, the Right Honourable Sir Julian Pauncefoot, Knight Grand Cross of the Orders of the Bath and of St. Michael and St. George, Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary of Great Britain;

And the President of the United States of America, the Honourable John Hay, Secretary of State of the United States of America;

Who, having exchanged their said full powers, found in due and proper form, have agreed to and signed the following Articles:—

ARTICLE I.

Where, on the death of any person holding real property (or property not personal), within the territories of one of the Contracting Parties, such real property would, by the laws of the land, pass to a subject or citizen of the other, were he not disqualified by the laws of the country where such real property is situated, such subject or citizen shall be allowed a term of three years in which to sell the same, this term to be reasonably prolonged if circumstances render it necessary, and to withdraw the proceeds thereof without restraint or interference, and exempt from any succession, probate, or administrative duties or charges other than those which may be imposed in like cases upon the subject or citizens of the country from which such proceeds may be drawn.

ARTICLE II.

The subjects or citizens of each of the Contracting Parties shall have full power to dispose of their personal property within the territories of the other by testament, donation or otherwise; and their heirs, legatees, and donees, being subjects or citizens of the other Contracting Party, whether resident or non-resident, shall succeed to their said personal property, and may take possession thereof either by themselves, or by others acting for them, and dispose of the same at their pleasure, paying such duties only as the citizens or subjects of the country where the property lies shall be liable to pay in like cases.

ARTICLE III.

In case of the death of any subject of Her Britannic Majesty in the United States, or of any citizen of the United States of America in the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, without having, in the country of his decease, any known heirs or testamentary executors by him appointed, the competent local authorities shall at once inform the nearest Consular officer of the nation to which the deceased person belonged of the circumstance, in order that the necessary information may be immediately forwarded to persons interested.

The said Consular Officer shall have the right to appear personally or by delegate, in all proceedings on behalf of the absent heirs or creditors until they are otherwise represented.

ARTICLE IV.

The stipulations of the present Convention shall not be applicable to any of the Colonies or foreign possessions of Her Britannic Majesty unless notice to that effect shall have been given, on behalf of any such Colony or foreign possession, by Her Britannic Majesty's Representative at Washington to the United States' Secretary of State within one year from the date of the exchange of the ratifications of the present Convention.

It is understood that, under the provisions of this Article, Her Majesty can in the same manner give notice of adhesion on behalf of any British Protectorate or sphere of influence, or on behalf of the Island of Cyprus, in virtue of the Convention of the 4th June, 1878, between Great Britain and Turkey.

The provisions of this Convention shall extend and apply to any territory or territories pertaining to or occupied and governed by the United States beyond the seas only upon notice to that effect being given by the Representative of the United States at London, by direction of the Treaty-making power of the United States.

ARTICLE V.

In all that concerns the right of disposing of every kind of property, real or personal, subjects or citizens of each of the High Contracting Parties shall, in the dominions of the other, enjoy the rights which are or may be accorded to the subjects or citizens of the most favoured nation.

ARTICLE VI.

The present Convention shall come into effect ten days after the day upon which the ratifications are exchanged, and shall remain in force for ten years after such exchange. In case neither of the High Contracting Parties shall have given notice to the other twelve months before the expiration of the said period of ten years of the intention to terminate the present Convention, it shall remain in force until the expiration of one year from the day on which either of the High Contracting Parties shall have given such notice.

Her Britannic Majesty or the United States shall also have the right separately to terminate the present Convention at any time, on giving twelve months' notice to that effect in regard to any British Colony, foreign possession, or dependency, as specified in Article IV, which may have acceded thereto.

ARTICLE VII.

The present Convention shall be duly ratified by Her Britannic Majesty and by the President of the United States, by and with the approval of the Senate thereof, and the ratifications shall be exchanged in London or in Washington.

In faith whereof we, the respective Plenipotentiaries, have signed this Treaty, and have hereunto affixed our seals.
