NOTICES

No. 58

13 June 2011

Electoral Ordinance (Title 30.1)

section 14(3)

Notification of alteration of Register of Electors for Stanley Constituency

1. This notice is issued under section 14(3) of the Electoral Ordinance (Title 30.1).
2. On 2 June 2011, I made a determination that the Register of Electors for the Stanley Constituency contains a clerical error within the meaning given to that expression in section 13(1)(d).
3. As a consequence of that determination, various persons' names fall to be entered in and removed from that register.
4. No alteration in respect of that determination has taken effect before today (the tenth day before the poll on 23 June 2011 for a by-election in the Stanley Constituency).
5. I have determined under section 14(4) that today (the tenth day before the poll) is the appropriate publication date.

6. The register is altered by replacing the version published in the Gazette on 1 May 2011 with the new version annexed to this notice.

7. Under section 14(3)(b), the alteration takes effect as from the beginning of today.

8. Under section 14(1), the new version of the register will have effect for the purposes of the by-election in the Stanley Constituency on 23 June 2011.

Dated 13 June 2011

J. M. PARKE,
Acting Registration Officer.

The following are not entitled to treatment and will be expected to meet the costs of their treatment together with associated administrative and travel (medical evacuation) expenses:

- Tourists and visitors to the Islands unless they are normally resident in a country with which the FIG has a reciprocal agreement (at present only with the UK for local treatments only (see Note 1)).
- Merchant seamen, fishermen and crews of ships visiting the Falkland Islands or operating in the Falkland Islands

Environmental Impact Statement Falkland Oil and Gas Limited

Non Technical Summary

Overview

This Non Technical Summary accompanies a full report which presents the results of the Environmental Impact Assessment (EIA) undertaken for a two-well exploration drilling campaign proposed by Falkland Oil and Gas Limited (FOGL).

The purpose of the Non Technical Summary is to briefly describe the project, environmental baseline conditions, summarise potential project impacts and present recommendations on mitigation measures.

Project Background

Falklands Oil and Gas Limited (FOGL) holds 100% equity interest and operatorship of 13 exploration and production licences offshore Falkland Islands (Figure 1), a UK Overseas Territory located on the edge of the Patagonian Shelf in the South Atlantic Ocean. The exploration and production licences cover approximately 48,740 square kilometres and are located in water depths ranging from 500 to 2,000 metres.

FOGL is a UK-based company and has been engaged in the exploration for oil and gas in the South and East Falklands Basins since 2004. The company carried out a number of seismic and site surveys and drilled their first well FI 61/05-1, on the Toroa prospect, in 2010. The evaluation of Loligo, Scotia, Nimrod and Vinson West and other key prospects continues with the current drilling programme proposed for the year 2012.

FOGL plans to drill two exploration wells. The first well will be, on the Loligo prospect at location A or NW. The second well location has not been confirmed but will be on either the Vinson West, Nimrod or Scotia prospects or potentially it will be a well in the Loligo area e.g. Loligo NW. (Figure 1). The proposed wells lie to the east and south-east of the Falkland Islands. The nearest to the shore well is Vinson West (155 kilometres) and the furthest is Scotia East D (314 kilometres). The water depths at well locations vary between 1,300-1,800 meters.

It is anticipated that hydrocarbons, if discovered, would primarily comprise oil with an API of 18-25° for all wells apart from Scotia East D (API 30°). Gas with condensate is a possible alternative but not considered in this EIA as this would represent a best case scenario from the point of view of environmental impacts.

FOGL has contracted to use the Leiv Eiriksson dynamically positioned, fifth-generation semi-submersible rig, owned by Ocean Rig 1 INC. The rig will mobilise following drilling in the neighbouring southern blocks operated by Borders & Southern. Drilling is anticipated to commence in March-April 2012 and will last for a 90 to 100 days (45 to 50 days per well). Following drilling, the wells will be plugged and abandoned in accordance with 'UK Oil and Gas' Guidelines. FIG guidelines for removal of obstructions from the seabed will be followed.

Water-based muds will be used to drill both wells. Chemicals to be used during the drilling have been selected to minimise the potential environmental impacts as much as possible. The vast majority (by volume) of planned chemicals have a Harmonised Offshore Chemical Notification Scheme category of 'E' (which are of low aquatic toxicity, readily biodegradable and non-bio accumulative) and are naturally occurring products (e.g. barite) that are either biologically inert or readily dispersible or biodegradable.

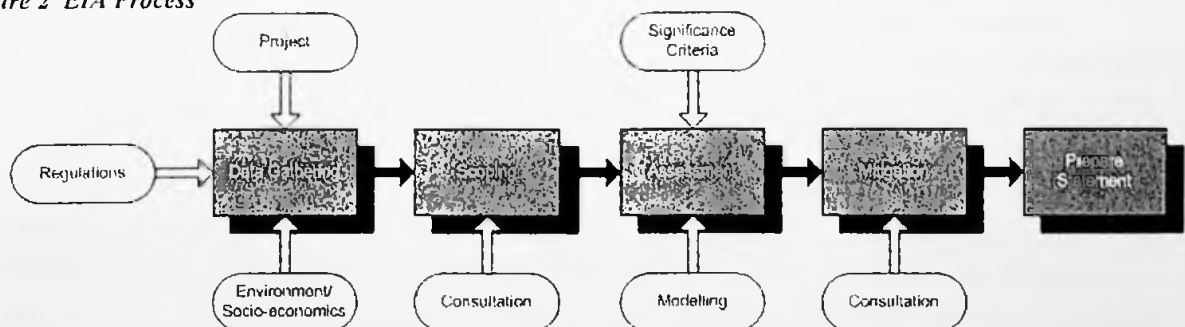

The drilling operations will be managed by AGR as drilling management contractor on behalf of FOGL. Three support vessels and two helicopters will be used throughout planned operations. Further operational details are included in Section 4.

Scope and Methodology

FOGL has commissioned RPS Energy to undertake the Environmental Impact Assessment (EIA) for the 2-well drilling programme in their southern and northern licence areas offshore Falkland Islands.

The EIA is an important management tool which ensures that that environmental hazards and impacts are identified and evaluated and that appropriate control (mitigation) measures are implemented throughout all phases of the project.

The purpose of the EIA is to:

- Set EIA objectives by defining the applicable Institutional, Policy and Regulatory frameworks;
- Describe the work that the project proponent intends to undertake and how the environmental considerations have formed an essential part in the development concept, definition and selection of the activities;
- Describe the physical, biological and socio-economic components of the environment within the study area and to assess their sensitivities in the context of the intended exploration drilling programme;
- Undertake Scoping exercises during the project planning stage through consultation with the Falkland Islands Government and key stakeholders, to outline key operational impacts associated with the project;
- Qualitatively and quantitatively assess the nature, significance and probability of impacts on environmental resources and receptors;
- Develop appropriate mitigation measures, together with management and monitoring procedures that will seek to avoid, minimise or reduce potential impacts to a level as low as reasonably practicable.

The EIA has been prepared to satisfy the requirements of 'The Offshore Minerals Ordinance 1994 (amended 1997) and other Falkland Islands' legislation pertaining to offshore exploration and production activities.

The geographical scope of this EIA includes the 13 FOGL licences together with the wider marine and coastal environment where relevant to the potential impacts of the Project (referred to as 'the project area of influence'). The focus of the EIA is on the locations where wells are likely to be drilled (see Figure 1).

Any operational details not covered by the EIS will be detailed in the Operational Addendum, which will be submitted to the Falkland Islands' Government (FIG) for review and approval, as per FOGL's agreement with FIG.

Baseline Environment

Data Collection

To provide a baseline against which potential impacts can be assessed, the EIA provides a description of the conditions that will prevail in the absence of the Project. The baseline includes information on all receptors and resources identified as having the potential to be significantly affected by the proposed Project. For this EIA, baseline data collection proceeded in several stages:

- Collection of available data from existing sources including:
  - Government agencies;
  - research and academic organisations;
  - published sources;
  - external stakeholders; and
  - previous offshore exploration EIAs.
- In-country information gathering and stakeholder interviews.
- Benthic and geophysical surveys of the well site locations have been undertaken to inform the physical and biological components of the baseline.
- Various meteorological studies commissioned by FOGL.
- Marine Mammal Observers (MMOs) reports issued from seismic and site surveys by various operators have been analysed and incorporated to provide up-to-date information on marine mammal sightings in the area.

Overview

The Patagonian Shelf Large Marine Ecosystem, where the Falkland Islands lie, is of regional and global significance for marine resources (Croxall & Wood, 2002). Current patterns and bathymetry influence nutrient circulation and marine productivity levels. Productive waters upwell on the edge of the continental shelf, but most particularly, to the north-west of the Jason Island Group, Beauchêne Island and the Burdwood Bank (Otley et al., 2008). These areas are rich in plankton and fish assemblages, and are important foraging grounds for seabirds and marine mammals (White et al. 2002).

Key environmental sensitivities identified within the FOGL licence blocks and surrounding areas are discussed below and summarised in Table 1.

Key Physical Sensitivities

- The Falkland Islands offshore is characterised by harsh weather conditions with strong winds and average wave height of 2-3 meters.
- On rare occasions, icebergs may occur throughout the licensed area.
- No gas hydrates have been identified during the well site surveys.

Key Biological Sensitivities

- Medium density of kelp species can be found throughout the project areas, which provides food and habitat for a wide range of marine invertebrates and fish.
- The most prominent colonial epifauna encountered across the Loligo site constitutes cnidarians, including at least two species of gorgonian (soft corals) and at least one species of scleractinian (hard or stony coral). The recovered coral samples, although superficially similar to the cold water coral Lophelia pertusa, are believed to be analogous Antarctic species, capable of withstanding colder waters. There is insufficient evidence to conclude that recorded coral species are part of cold coral colonies/reefs classified as Annex I habitat under the EU Habitats Directive.
- Fish species known to spawn in the vicinity of the FOGL exploration wells include Patagonian toothfish (peaks in May and July through to August), and grenadier during March-April.
- The following species of cetacean were recorded during the austral winter around the proposed FOGL well sites; fin whale, long-finned pilot whale, southern bottlenose whale, hourglass dolphin, Peale's dolphin, sei whale, minke whale, sperm whale, killer whale, blue whale, and spectacled porpoise.
- Pinnipeds present in the vicinity of the FOGL sites include; South American sea lion, southern elephant seal, South American fur seal and the rare leopard seal. All of these species except the leopard seal spend the summer months ashore on the Falkland Islands breeding. During winter, however, they have been observed undertaking long foraging trips which overlap with the FOGL blocks.
- Petrels are known to be present in the vicinity of the FOGL site, with particularly high numbers occurring during the proposed drilling period. These include; Antarctic fulmar, Kerguelen petrel, cape petrel, and blue petrel. Other seabird species likely to be present include; soft-plumaged petrel, white chinned petrel, grey-backed storm petrel, great shearwater, sooty shearwater, great shearwaters, little shearwater, prion and skua sp, kelp gull, South American tern and the Arctic tern.
- Of the penguin species recorded offshore the Falkland Islands, only king penguins and gentoo penguins are likely to be present in significant quantities during the proposed drilling period; they can forage far offshore but predominantly stay closer to the shore.
- It is possible that the following species of albatross will be present in the vicinity of FOGL blocks throughout the year: southern and northern royal albatross, black-browed albatross and grey-headed albatross, light – mantled sooty albatross, wandering albatross and shy albatross.
- Seabird vulnerability is assumed to be high throughout the drilling period due to variability in seasonality and occurrence of various birds with protected status. Based on the JNCC study (White et al., 2002), seabird vulnerability to oil spills in the proximity of the project area is highest in August, and was rated as high on the vulnerability scale. During winter and spring months seabird vulnerability was rated as low, and there was no data for March and May. The JNCC data coverage is not sufficient for impact assessment purposes and was used as an indicator of seabird vulnerability for near shore areas only.
- Numerous protected areas exist on the Falkland Islands coast related to seabirds and seal colonies. The closest to the proposed FOGL well sites is the Stanley Common & Cape Pembroke Sanctuary Protected Area, located approximately 153 kilometres north-west of the Vinson West well site.

- The Patagonian toothfish and grenadier is the main catch throughout the FOGL licensed area, with some rock cod fishing in the vicinity of the northern well sites. Other species caught in this region include skates, hake and Loligo squid.
- Low density of shipping in general offshore and in the vicinity of the proposed wells.
- Tourism in the Falklands is growing rapidly. However, tourist levels peak in austral summer, outside the FOGL drilling timetable.
- There is an increasing exploration interest, with a focus on the North Falklands licences. To the south and east of the Falklands, only one well (Toroa - 2010) has been drilled.

Discussion of Impacts and Mitigation

The proposed exploration activities have the potential to induce noise, atmospheric emissions, physical disturbance and a variety of discharges (routine, and non-routine, such as spills) and wastes.

A detailed study of the potential impacts, sensitivity of receptors, mitigation measures and any residual impact has been carried out and is included within the EIS report. An overview of the main areas of impact and their significance is provided in the table below.

Table 2 Potential Hazards and Associated Impacts from the Proposed Drilling Operations assuming Implementation of Pollution Prevention and Mitigation Measures

The risk of accidental hydrocarbon spillage to the sea is the main environmental concern associated with the proposed drilling programme. Spilled oil can have a number of environmental and economic impacts.

The greatest environmental sensitivity to oil spills would be the presence of vulnerable and protected seabird populations (i.e. penguins, petrels, albatrosses) and marine mammals (cetaceans and pinnipeds in particular). Without implementation of mitigation measures to stop or disperse a worst case scenario spill, the impact on these species is likely to have severe consequences affecting regional population count and dynamics, long term (>10 years) damage and poor potential for recovery rates. Provided that an effective and timely spill response is put in place, the overall impact is likely to be reduced to a lower significance, where medium term (>2 years) damage to ecosystem occurs with a likelihood of recovery within 10 years.

Cumulative environmental effects from the planned exploration programme are considered to be minor given the short term nature of the drilling and low level of exploration activities in the East and South Falkland Basins.

Transboundary impacts have a low probability of occurring and are assessed to be of minor significance provided the below mitigation measures are implemented.

The potential impacts of these operations will be mitigated in a number of ways, including:

- Maintaining a culture of openness and ongoing consultation with the Falkland Islands Government (FIG), the public, and key stakeholders.
- Applying international best practice and established UK standards to the proposed operations.
- Extensive logistical planning prior to commencing operations to ensure that no strains are placed on current onshore capacities.
- Comprehensive operational planning, risk assessment and provision of suitable specification equipment for drilling (i.e. Blowout preventer) and planning for emergencies (i.e. capping device, relief well);
- Implementing a high level of environmental management offshore and applying environmental procedures for potentially impacting operations (chemical storage, bunkering, waste handling, maintenance programmes, seafloor surveys etc).
- Establishing and implementing a project specific Oil Pollution Emergency Plan and carrying out training of key personnel in spill response. FOGL will be a member of Oil Spill Response Ltd and will have access to their Tier 1, 2 and 3 response capabilities as well as a dedicated oil wildlife response capability provided by the Sea Alarm.
- Preparation of the Iceberg Management Plan covering iceberg surveillance and monitoring procedures and detailing avoidance and mitigation measures;
- Implementing a detailed waste management plan to minimise the quantity of waste going to landfill, prevent unsuitable disposal of waste, and maximise the re-use of materials. All hazardous waste will be transferred to UK for treatment and disposal.
- Using water based drilling muds and low toxicity chemicals approved under the UK Offshore Chemical Notification Scheme.
- Ensuring all discharges from the rig/supporting vessels are treated and discharged according to the MARPOL Convention.
- Preventing increased noise levels in ecologically sensitive areas, i.e. avoiding helicopter flights over seabird and pinniped colonies.
- Collecting and sharing environmental data wherever possible, for example in offshore sightings, seabed surveys and meteorological and oceanographic conditions.

Conclusions

The assessment of potential environmental impacts from the proposed drilling programme has been carried out using a conservative precautionary approach, and is based on publicly available literature, unpublished research data, inputs from stakeholder consultation combined with the expert judgement of the RPS Energy consultants and the Falklands Island Government departments, Falkland Conservation, Birdlife International and NGOs. On the basis of the assessment conducted, a wide range of preventative and mitigation measures have been proposed.

Given the current operational commitments and proposed mitigation measures, it is considered that the routine drilling activities can be undertaken without significant impacts to the Falkland Islands' environment. However, in the event of a potential blowout under worst case scenario conditions (i.e loss of control of the well due to failure of numerous redundant safety systems e.g. blow-out preventer; long term release of liquid hydrocarbons before capping device or relief well can be enacted), the impact is likely to be of major significance.

Further Studies and Recommendations

Data Gaps

EIA process is heavily reliant on the accuracy and availability of the baseline environmental data. For the current EIA, a series of data gaps have been identified which are to be considered as an element of uncertainty contributing on the final conclusions:

- Absence of reliable scientific data on fish spawning and nursery grounds around Falklands Islands. Though a number of publications discuss this subject, there is insufficient coverage, or correlation between various results, to build up regional and temporal overviews of the spawning areas.
- Sparse information on the benthic environment, including protected habitats (i.e. cold coral colonies) offshore Falkland Islands. There is therefore a need for a strategic co-ordinated survey and monitoring programme.
- Comparatively little is known about the numbers and distribution of marine mammals in the offshore environment, their use of the area and its resources. Survey effort to date is limited to fishing observations and a single 'Seabirds at Sea' programme undertaken in 1998-2001. Therefore a need for a strategic co-ordinated survey and monitoring programme based on adequate scientific approach exists. Given weather conditions offshore Falklands, a programme of acoustic monitoring is also desirable to complement such visual surveys throughout the year.
- Existing MMO reports from rig site surveys and seismic surveys have not been collated into the main body of knowledge on cetaceans. With suitable co-ordination and methods development, existing cetacean data gathering could be improved and systematised.
- Few data, including the Seabirds at Sea programme, 1998-2001, and observations from fishing vessels, currently exist to indicate foraging areas for pinniped species along the Falklands Shelf. The first attempts to determine the offshore distribution of pinnipeds using tagging and satellite telemetry methods, began in 2000. However, in most cases the sample sizes were too small to be conclusive of pinniped distribution trends. A FL wide survey to assess the abundance and distribution of pinnipeds is highly desirable due to their high vulnerability to marine noise and oil spills.
- Comparatively little is known about the numbers and seasonal distribution of seabirds in the offshore environment, and their vulnerability to surface pollution at different times of the year. Fishing vessel observations are partially biased as vessels tend to attract certain types of birds, whilst the Seabirds At Sea survey (1998-2001) effort was particularly low to the east and south of the Falkland Islands i.e. the FOGL licence areas. Seabird tracking data has been collected since 1994 and is limited to few species of protected petrels and albatrosses.

General Recommendations- data gaps and data management

- Survey data (benthic, cetaceans, pinnipeds) collected by various operators should be designed to generate datasets that can support both strategic and site-specific approaches to environmental assessment.
- Falkland Islands marine monitoring and data gathering initiatives should be initiated and integrated across and between the various state agencies, research institutions and commercial operators.
- Environmental data (physical, chemical, biological and relating to other sea users) should be collated and held in a co-ordinated and readily accessible database at an identified location for use in future oil and gas-related environmental assessments.

Project Specific Recommendations

Project specific recommendations to enhance the knowledge of licensing area include:

- Use of marine mammal and seabird observers during drilling programme.
- Compiling and releasing seabed visual observations from ROV surveys where these provide information on seabed habitats or species.

Clauses 6 and 7 would amend sections 16 and 17, in relation to residence permits and work permits respectively, to allow an application for a permit to be refused on grounds of the burden on public resources that would be likely to arise from an applicant's, or a dependent's, educational needs.   - (b) advance payments or deposits that it reasonably demands under subsection (6).

- (a) must be reasonable;

(b) are restricted to no more than the total of —

(i) either —

(aa) the amount (after accounting for relevant benefits to the utility) that the supplier of the services charges the utility for them; or

(bb) if it is lower, the amount (after accounting for relevant benefits to the customer) that the supplier would have charged the customer for supplying the services directly; and

(ii) a mark-up over that amount, which must not exceed 15%.

(5) In subsection (4) —

(a) “benefit” includes a payment, discount, rebate or commission (whether in money or in kind); and

(b) “relevant benefit” means a benefit that —

(i) arises (or can reasonably be taken to arise) from the supply of the satellite telecommunications services; and

(ii) either —

(aa) is received by the utility or customer; or

(bb) is (or can reasonably be taken to be) paid or provided at the direction of the utility or customer.

(b) a defect or deficiency in the provision of satellite telecommunications services to the extent that it is caused by either —

(i) equipment provided by the customer; or

(ii) the use of that equipment.

48G. Resolution of disputes

(1) Sections 48H and 48I apply if a telecommunications utility and a customer are in dispute in relation to either —

(b) the terms or conditions on which those services are to be provided.

(2) If the utility has a Code of Practice for the resolution of complaints and disputes that is approved by the Government under section 11F, the customer must first exhaust the procedures set out in the Code before sections 48H and 48I apply.

OBJECTS AND REASONS

This Bill would amend the Telecommunications Ordinance (Title 70.1) by inserting a new Part 6A dealing with the provision of satellite telecommunications services. It would also make consequential amendments elsewhere in the Ordinance. Finally, it would amend provisions relating to the role of the Telecommunications Appeals Panel and consultation with it.

Clause 2 provides that the Ordinance would not come into force until a day appointed by the Governor in a notice published in the Gazette.

Clause 4 would insert new definitions into section 2 of the Ordinance cross-referring to the definitions in the new sections 48A and 48E.

Clause 5 would amend section 2A(5)(b) to exclude the Governor's functions under the new Part 6A (but not those of the Government) from the role of the Regulator.

Clause 6 would amend section 2B(3) to redefine the role of the Telecommunications Appeals Panel to include dealing with appeals relating to the new Part 6A and also to be consulted on certain decisions relating to telecommunications (including those where the Ordinance requires the Panel to be consulted).

Clause 7 would insert a new section 2G to deal with consultation of the Panel at times when it has no members or there are vacancies on it.

Clause 8 would insert a new Part 6A into the Ordinance dealing with satellite telecommunications.

Section 48A would define satellite telecommunications services but would allow for the definition to be varied in the future (following consultation).

Section 48B would provide for the new provisions to apply to the holder of an existing telecommunications licence.

Section 48C would impose a duty on telecommunications utility to comply with requests from customers for satellite telecommunications services to be provided by the utility. It would allow the customer to specify the supplier of the services to the utility and to provide some or all of the equipment involved.

Section 48D would specify the limited circumstances in which a telecommunications utility need not provide the satellite telecommunications services requested (or continue providing them). It would also provide that the utility is not responsible for defects and deficiencies for which the supplier of the services to the utility is to blame and that are outside the utility's control.

Section 48E would allow the utility to make the provision of satellite telecommunications services conditional on payment of its charges and on reasonable demands for advance payments or deposits. However, it would cap the price for satellite telecommunications services to the recovery of net costs plus a mark up limited to a maximum of 15%. The Governor would be able (following consultation) to vary that 15% figure (but not in the first 12 months of the new regime). The Governor would also be able (again, following consultation) to vary the definitions of two terms used in calculating net costs.

Section 48F would allow the utility to impose technical requirements (relating to compatibility and quality) for equipment provided by customers themselves. The requirements would have to be reasonable but section 48F would also allow the utility to make compliance with them a condition of providing satellite telecommunications services. It would also provide that the utility is not responsible for defects and deficiencies caused by customers' own equipment or its use.

Section 48G would provide for the procedures in sections 48H and 48I to apply to disputes about satellite telecommunications services but, if the utility has an approved Code of Practice for complaint handling and dispute resolution, it would require customers to exhaust its internal procedures first before resorting to the statutory process.

Section 48H would provide for unresolved disputes to be dealt with initially by the Government (in practice, by the Regulator) and, if either party remains dissatisfied, section 48I would allow for the matter to be referred to the Telecommunication Appeals Panel.

Section 48J would allow the Government (in practice, the Regulator) to issue non-binding guidelines (following consultation) and section 48K would enable the Governor to make regulations (again, following consultation).

EXPLANATORY NOTE
(not forming part of the order)

Section 59(1)(j) of the Road Traffic Ordinance (Title 63.1) allows the Governor to make regulations providing for controlling or restricting traffic, whether vehicular or pedestrian, including the imposition of one way traffic systems.

The Stanley (Various Roads) One Way Traffic Order 2010 (No. 10 of 2010) designates various roads or stretches of road in Stanley as one-way.

This order amends the Stanley (Various Roads) One Way Traffic Order to deal with two specific issues:

- (a) it allows for police vehicles to be driven directly out of the car park in front of the police station onto Ross Road and to be reversed in or out of parking spaces in that car park; and
- (b) it also allows for a defence of reasonable excuse.

This Bill would amend Schedule 6 to the Taxes Ordinance (Title 69.1) to deal with two issues:

- (a) to provide for a system of civil penalties on petroleum licensees who do not comply with notices to provide information; and
- (b) to extend petroleum licensees' liability for amounts due from (but not paid by) contractors operating in their licensed areas to cover payments on account of tax (POAT) and Medical Services Tax (MST).

Under Schedule 6, the Commissioner for Taxation has the power to serve notices on petroleum licensees requiring the provision of certain information.

Failure to comply with a notice is already a criminal offence under paragraph 2(4) of Schedule 6 (with a maximum penalty of level 7 on the standard scale – which will be £17,500).

Clause 3(2) would amend paragraph 2 to introduce a system of civil penalties for failure to comply.

A petroleum licensee would be liable to a £250 penalty for failing to comply by the due date with a notice to provide information and to a further £250 penalty every 15 days after that until the notice is finally complied with.

The Commissioner would have the power to reduce a civil penalty (or even to waive it entirely). However, a licensee seeking to have a penalty reduced or waived would have to apply to the Commissioner and would have to satisfy the Commissioner that there were special circumstances and that reducing or waiving the penalty would be appropriate in those special circumstances.

Under Schedule 6, petroleum licensees can also be made liable for tax due from their contractors.

Clause 3(3) would extend that liability to amounts due in respect of POAT and MST by adding two new paragraphs to Schedule 6:

- the new paragraph 6 deals with the recovery of POAT and MST from licensees; and
- the new paragraph 7 would make similar provision for exemptions to the provision already made in paragraph 5 for exemptions from the existing liability.

(ii) in the case of a juror who holds an immigration permit, the address held for that person by the Immigration Office of the Falkland Islands Government;

- (b) it is delivered to the post office in Stanley; and
  - (c) either —

    - (ii) it is exempt from prepayment of postage.

- “(7) A notice will be treated as having been delivered by hand to a juror if —
- (a) it is addressed to the juror at either —
    - (i) in the case of a juror who is registered as a voter under the Electoral Ordinance, the address at which that juror is registered; or

- (b) both of the following choices are made by those persons —

(ii) at least one of them chooses to be tried by a judge alone.”

(3) The following subsection is inserted after subsection (3) —

“(3A) If this subsection applies, the trial judge must decide the order in which the trials are to be conducted.”

OBJECTS AND REASONS

This Bill would amend the Jury Ordinance (Title 22.5) to deal with two issues:

- first, it would expand the pool of potential jurors for Supreme Court trials; and
- secondly, it would give the trial judge discretion over the order in which trials are heard where defendants charged on the same indictment make different choices about whether to be tried by a judge and jury or a judge sitting alone.

Qualification for jury service, etc

Section 3 of the Jury Ordinance deals with qualification for jury service.

Currently, only those who are registered to vote, who are ordinarily resident in the Falkland Islands and who have been ordinarily resident in the Falkland Islands for at least 5 years since the age of 13 are qualified to serve on a jury. This means that the only people who can currently serve on a jury are those satisfying the ordinary residence requirements who hold Falkland Islands Status and who are also British Citizens, British Overseas Territories Citizens or British Overseas Citizens (or who were already registered to vote under the previous Constitution).

Clause 4 would insert a new definition of “immigration permit” (which is used in other amendments) into the interpretation section of Jury Ordinance (section 2). It would also make another minor correction to section 2.

Clause 5 would replace the existing section 3 with a new section providing for an expanded pool of potential jurors. Anyone who is registered to vote (on the basis of Falkland Islands Status and citizenship) and who is ordinarily resident in the Islands would remain eligible to serve on a jury. In addition, the holders of permanent residence permit, residence permit and work permits (and their dependants named on permits) would be eligible to serve on a jury if they are ordinarily resident.

The small number of people who have Falkland Islands Status but who are not British Citizens, British Overseas Territories Citizens or British Overseas Citizens will still not be able to serve on a jury (unless they were already registered to vote under the previous Constitution).

Clauses 6 to 8 would make consequential amendments.

Currently, the provision that anyone qualified for jury service is potentially liable for it is contained in section 3. Clause 6 would move that to a new section 3A.

Section 5 currently provides for marked copies of the electoral registers to be provided to the Registrar of the Supreme Court to be used as the basis for summoning jurors. The combined effect of clauses 6 and 8 would be to move that to a new section 3B and allow the Registrar to obtain information from both registration officers (about those registered to vote) and the Principal Immigration Officer (about those holding permits).

Clause 7 would amend section 4 (which deals with the summoning of jurors) to provide for the arrangements for summoning those holding permits as well as those on the electoral registers.

Clause 9 would make a connected change by limiting the excusal from further jury service from those who actually serve on a jury and no longer granting excusal to those who attend to perform jury service but who do not actually serve on a jury.

Order of trials

Section 16 deals with the right of a defendant being charged with an indictable offence to choose between being tried by a judge and a jury or being tried by a judge sitting alone.

Section 16(3) currently deals with the situation in which more than one person is being tried on the same indictment and one or more of them chooses to be tried before a judge and jury but one or more of them chooses to be tried by a judge sitting alone instead.

It provides that the jury trial must always be held first and that the trial before the judge sitting alone cannot start until the jury trial has been completed.

Clause 10 would amend section 16 so that, instead, the trial judge would have discretion to decide (according to the circumstances of the case) which trial should be held first.

3. Section 27 of the Constitution amended – Constituencies

(No. of 2011)

A BILL

AN ORDINANCE

BE IT ENACTED by the Legislature of the Falkland Islands —

This Ordinance is the Single Constituency Ordinance.

This Ordinance comes into force when the Legislative Assembly is dissolved for the first time after this Ordinance is published in the Gazette

Section 27 of the Constitution is amended by omitting subsections (1) and (2) and substituting the following —

(2) The manner in which the eight members are elected to the Legislative Assembly must be prescribed by Ordinance "

- Section 27(1) of the Constitution provides for the Falkland Islands to be divided into two constituencies: Camp (which returns three elected members to the Legislative Assembly) and Stanley (which returns five elected members to the Legislative Assembly). It provides for the manner in which members are elected to be prescribed by Ordinance.

- Section 27(2) of the Constitution provides for the boundaries of the Stanley constituency to be prescribed by the Ordinance that makes provision for elections to the Legislative Assembly. It provides for the remainder of the Falkland Islands to be the Camp constituency.

Section 27(3) of the Constitution allows for sections 27(1) and section 27(2) to be amended by Ordinance. However, it imposes a requirement that, for such an amendment to be made, it has to have been supported in a referendum by at least two-thirds of those voting in each of the constituencies.

This Bill would amend sections 27(1) and 27(2) of the Constitution to replace the separate Camp and Stanley constituencies with a single constituency for the whole of the Falkland Islands.

It would not change the total number of members elected to the Legislative Assembly. That is fixed at eight by section 26(2) of the Constitution.

SCHEDULE 2 BALLOT PAPERS

1. Size of ballot papers

Each ballot paper used in the referendum must be —

- (a) at least 200 millimetres by 140 millimetres in size;
- (b) no more than 220 millimetres by 160 millimetres in size; and
- (c) as far as possible (allowing for reasonable tolerance), the same size as the other ballot papers used in the referendum.

2. Front of ballot paper

(1) The front of each ballot paper must be in (or substantially in) the following form —

REFERENDUM – 3 November 2011 CAMP/STANLEY CONSTITUENCY
DO YOU WANT A SINGLE CONSTITUENCY FOR THE WHOLE OF THE ISLANDS?
YES I support the Single Constituency Bill
NO I oppose the Single Constituency Bill
MARK ONE BOX ONLY WITH A CROSS (X) OR A TICK (✓)
<small>If you want a single constituency for the whole of the Islands, mark the YES box If you want separate constituencies for Camp and Stanley, mark the NO box</small>

(2) The heading of the ballot papers to be used for each constituency must be amended to refer to that constituency.

3. Back of ballot paper

The back of each ballot paper must be blank apart from its serial number.

SCHEDULE 3
OFFICIAL LEAFLET

1. Size of official leaflet

Every copy of the official leaflet must be at least 280 millimetres by 200 millimetres in size.

2. Front of official leaflet

(1) The front of each copy of the official leaflet must be in (or substantially in) the following form —

There is going to be a referendum
on 3 November 2011

You will be asked this question:

DO YOU WANT A SINGLE CONSTITUENCY
FOR THE WHOLE OF THE ISLANDS?

If you want a single constituency for the whole of the Islands:
vote "YES"

If you want separate constituencies for Camp and Stanley:
vote "NO"

3. Back of official leaflet

(1) The back of each copy of the official leaflet must be in (or substantially in) the following form —

How is the Assembly elected now?

There are two constituencies in the Islands:

- Camp, which elects 3 members to the Legislative Assembly
- Stanley, which elects 5 members to the Legislative Assembly

On [reference date], there were [260] voters in Camp and [1313] voters in Stanley.

So, having these two constituencies means that there is:

- one member for every [87] voters in Camp
- one member for every [263] voters in Stanley

Single Constituency Bill

The Single Constituency Bill would amend the Constitution to replace the two constituencies with a single constituency. If it becomes law, voters throughout the Islands would elect all 8 members of the Legislative Assembly.

That would give everyone (in Camp and in Stanley) more choice about who to vote for. However, it might mean that none of the 8 members of the Legislative Assembly comes from Camp or that none of them comes from Stanley.

The Legislative Assembly can only pass the Bill if two-thirds or more of those voting in Camp and two-thirds or more of those voting in Stanley support the Bill by voting "Yes". If that happens (and only if that happens), there could be a single constituency to elect all 8 members of the Legislative Assembly.

If a third or more of those voting in Camp or a third or more of those voting in Stanley oppose the Bill by voting "No", the Bill cannot be passed and the two constituencies will stay separate.

The Single Constituency Bill has been published in the Falkland Islands Gazette. If you want a copy of the Bill, you should contact the Registration Officer, either by phoning 27269 or by visiting the Registry in the Town Hall.

What about the voting system?

In 2001, the referendum was not just about whether or not there should be a single constituency but also about a voting system for elections.

To keep things simpler this time, the referendum on 3 November 2011 is only about whether there should be a single constituency.

What happens next?

The referendum will be held on 3 November 2011. Information about when and where to vote will be announced nearer the time.

If you are registered to vote, you will be able to vote in the referendum.

If you are entitled to vote but are not registered, you should register to make sure that you can have your say on this issue.

If you want to check whether or not you are registered to vote or if you have any queries about registering to vote, you should contact the Registration Officer, either by phoning 27269 or by visiting the Registry in the Town Hall.

4. Reference date

(1) The registration officer must select a date to be the reference date for the purposes of this paragraph and paragraph 5.

(2) The reference date must be a date within the four week period before the registration officer starts to distribute copies of the official leaflet.

(3) The reference date must not be more than three months before the referendum date.

(4) The reference in square brackets on the back of the official leaflet to the reference date must be changed to refer to the reference date selected under sub-paragraph (1).

5. Use of updated numbers in official leaflet

(1) Sub-paragraph (2) applies to the following numbers in square brackets on the back of the official leaflet —

(a) the number of voters in Camp;

(b) the number of voters in Stanley;

(c) the number of voters in Camp (to the nearest whole number) for which there is one member of the Legislative Assembly; and

(d) the number of voters in Stanley (to the nearest whole number) for which there is one member of the Legislative Assembly.

(2) The numbers to which this sub-paragraph applies must be changed to refer to the numbers that applied on the reference date.

SCHEDULE 4

NOTICE TO BE DISPLAYED AT POLLING PLACES AND DURING VISITS BY MOBILE POLLING TEAMS

1. Size of notice

(1) Every copy of the notice must be at least 280 millimetres by 200 millimetres in size.

(2) At least one copy of the notice displayed at each polling place and during each visit by a mobile team must be at least 400 millimetres by 280 millimetres in size.

2. Form of notice

The notice must be in (or substantially in) the following form —

OBJECTS AND REASONS

Sections 27(1) and 27(2) of the Constitution deal with the two existing constituencies (Camp and Stanley) for elections to the Legislative Assembly. Section 27(3) allows for sections 27(1) and 27(2) to be amended by Ordinance but only if the Bill for that Ordinance is supported at a referendum by two-thirds of those voting in each of the constituencies.

The Single Constituency Bill (which is set out in Schedule 1 to this Bill) would amend sections 27(1) and 27(2) to replace the two existing constituencies with a single constituency for the whole of the Falkland Islands.

This Bill would provide for a referendum to be held on the Single Constituency Bill for the purposes of section 27(3) of the Constitution.

Clause 3(1) defines some of the terms used elsewhere in the Bill. Clause 3(2) provides for other terms to have the same meaning as they do in the Electoral Ordinance.

Clause 4 would provide for a referendum to be held. The date of the referendum would be 3 November 2011 but clause 5 deals with the possibility of it having to be postponed.

Under clause 6, everyone registered to vote under the Electoral Ordinance would be entitled to vote in the referendum.

Clause 7 deals with the question to be asked in the referendum and the answers that voters would be able to give. Under clause 7(1), the question to be asked would be "Do you want a single constituency for the whole of the Islands?". Under clause 7(2), voters would be able to answer either: "Yes – I support the Single Constituency Bill" or "No – I oppose the Single Constituency Bill".

Clauses 8, 9 and 10 and Schedule 3 deal with the information to be given to voters before the referendum takes place.

Clause 8 and Schedule 3 deal with the official leaflet that would be distributed to voters at least four weeks before the referendum. The information contained in the official leaflet could also be publicised in other ways.

Clause 9 deals with arrangements to make sure that voters can familiarise themselves with the Single Constituency Bill before the referendum.

Clause 10 deals with publicity for the referendum arrangements.

Clause 11 and Schedules 4 and 5 deal with the information to be available to voters at polling places and during visits by mobile polling teams.

Clause 12 and Schedule 2 deal with the ballot papers that would be used in the referendum.

Clause 13(1) would provide for the returning officer for each constituency to have overall responsibility for running the referendum in each constituency. Clauses 13(2) and 13(3) deal with staffing for the referendum.

Clause 14 would provide for the Chief Executive to be the Chief Counting Officer for the referendum with overall responsibility for the counting of votes. However, clause 14(2) provides for the possibility that the Chief Executive is unable to act as Chief Counting Officer. Clause 15 would allow for the Chief Counting Officer to appoint counting officers to carry out delegated functions and clause 16 deals with the staffing of the count.

Clauses 17 and 18 deal with counting observers.

Clause 17(1) would provide for counting observers to be appointed by the Chief Counting Officer. Under clause 17(2), there would have to be counting observers from both Camp and Stanley. Clauses 17(3) and 17(4) would allow the Governor to give directions about the appointment of counting observers that the Chief Counting Officer would have to follow,

Under clauses 18(1) and 18(2), the Chief Counting Officer would have a duty to give facilities to the counting observers but not to an extent where it would interfere with the count. Clauses 18(3), 18(4) and 18(5) deal with the conduct of counting observers.

Clause 19 deals with the result of the referendum and clause 20 deals with the publication of that result in the Gazette.

Clause 21 would provide for extent to which the Electoral Ordinance would apply to the referendum.

Clause 22 would allow for subsidiary legislation to be made.

EXPLANATORY NOTE
(not forming part of the order)

These regulations would amend the Immigration (Permanent Residence Permits) Regulations (SR&O No 18 of 2009). Those regulations are referred to as the “PRP regulations” in this note.

Currently, the form in Schedule 2 to the PRP regulations must be used for applications for Permanent Resident Permits.

However, because changes to the points system (including critical skills areas) and the points threshold can be made by notice (and changes have already been made), these regulations would amend the PRP regulations to allow the Principal Information Officer to prepare the application form to be used and the guidance notes for applicants.

Schedule 2 to the PRP regulations is revoked but, at least until a new application form is prepared by the Principal Immigration Officer, the existing form in Schedule 2 will remain in use in a modified form (reflecting the changes that have been made to the points system and the points threshold).

The Principal Immigration Officer will be required to keep the application form and guidance notes under review. There is provision for transitional arrangements whenever a new form is introduced.

These regulations also amend the PRP regulations to provide for more flexibility in the information, documentation and evidence that can be provided in support of an application.

EXPLANATORY NOTE (not part of the regulations)

These regulations are made under the Livestock and Meat Products Ordinance and deal with the welfare of livestock. For the purposes of these regulations, “livestock” is defined in regulation 3 as meaning “animals of a kind normally kept for slaughter”, which would include sheep while they are still producing wool and cows while they are being milked.

Regulation 3 also defines other terms used in the regulations.

Regulation 4 requires the Senior Veterinary Officer to issue codes of practice for the welfare of livestock, to keep those codes under review and to issue new or revised codes whenever necessary. The Senior Veterinary Officer must publish notices in the Gazette when new codes are issued and must also arrange for the codes to be made available (but can charge for copies issued on paper rather than electronically).

Regulation 5 deals with who is responsible for the welfare of livestock. Owners and keepers of livestock are responsible for its welfare, as are those with the care or control of livestock.

Regulations 6 to 8 deal with the duties on those who are responsible for the welfare of livestock.

Under regulation 6, those who are responsible for the welfare of livestock must take reasonable steps to ensure the well-being of the livestock and to ensure that the livestock is not caused unnecessary harm (defined in regulation 3 to mean unnecessary pain, suffering, distress or injury). A person who is responsible for the welfare of livestock must not cause unnecessary harm to livestock or permit anyone else to do so.

Under regulation 7, those who are responsible for the welfare of livestock must take reasonable steps to ensure compliance with the general requirements set out in the Schedule.

Under regulation 8, those who are responsible for the welfare of livestock must be acquainted with the relevant codes of practice and have access to them and must ensure that anyone employed or engaged to attend to the livestock do so too.

Regulations 9 and 10 deal with powers of entry and inspection.

Regulation 11 deals with improvement notices. These can be issued if the Senior Veterinary Officer, another Veterinary Officer or someone appointed in writing as an authorised person considers that the requirements of the regulations are not being met. An improvement notice will state what action needs to be taken, why that action needs to be taken and by when it needs to be taken.

Regulation 12 deals with offences against the regulations.

The following offences can only be committed by someone who is responsible for the welfare of livestock:-

- Deliberately or recklessly causing unnecessary harm to livestock (or allowing someone else to do so) – the maximum penalty for this offence is a level 6 fine (£10,000 from 15 May 2011) and/or up to 6 months in prison;
- Failing to take all reasonable steps to ensure the well-being of livestock and to prevent unnecessary harm to it – the maximum penalty for this offence is a level 5 fine (£4,000 from 15 May 2011) and/or up to 3 months in prison;
- Failing to take all reasonable steps to ensure that the general requirements in The schedule are met – the maximum penalty for this offence is a level 5 fine (£4,000 from 15 May 2011) and/or up to 3 months in prison; and
- Failing to be acquainted with relevant codes of practice and to have access to them (or failing to ensure that anyone employed or engaged to attend to the livestock does so too) – the maximum penalty for this offence is a level 4 fine (£2,000 from 15 May 2011).

The following are offences with a maximum penalty of a level 5 fine (£4,000 from 15 May 2011) and/or up to 3 months in prison:-

- Hindering or obstructing an authorised person from enforcing these regulations;
- Failing to comply with a reasonable request made by an authorised person;
- Intentionally providing false or misleading information to an authorised person (or being reckless as to whether information provided to an authorised person is false or misleading); and
- Failing to take all reasonable steps comply with an improvement notice within the time allowed.

The offence of deliberately or recklessly causing unnecessary harm to livestock does not affect the offences of cruelty and neglect under the Protection of Animals Act 1911 (as applied in the Falkland Islands). In appropriate cases, anyone committing an offence of cruelty or neglect could be charged with that offence, whether or not that person has responsibility for livestock under these regulations.

The Schedule sets out the general conditions for the welfare of livestock.

OBJECTS AND REASONS

This Bill would make a number of amendments to the Electoral Ordinance (Title 30.1).

Amendments to the Electoral Ordinance need to be made for a number of reasons:

(1) Many of the changes are being made to ensure that existing provisions in the Electoral Ordinance apply (with suitable modifications) to referenda as well as to elections. These are being put forward in preparation for the forthcoming Single Constituency Referendum proposed to take place on 3 November 2011. The Electoral Ordinance was amended to some extent prior to the referendum held in 2001 but it is now considered that further amendments need to be made.

(2) Provision would be made to allow the use of tendered ballot papers at elections and referenda to be brought to an end. There is currently provision for tendered ballot papers to be issued when someone attends to vote but is marked as having voted already or as having arranged to vote by post, proxy or postal proxy. Tendered ballot papers are not actually counted and, in practice, are very rarely issued (except by mistake). It is proposed to abolish them. However, unlike the rest of the Bill, the amendments relating to tendered ballot papers would not come into force on publication of the Amendment Ordinance (if it becomes law) – these amendments would only come into force at a later date and it is envisaged that this would not be until after the Single Constituency Referendum (which, it is proposed in a separate Bill, would be a pilot for not using tendered ballot papers).

(3) A number of changes would be made to allow the system of “rolling registration” to work more effectively.

(4) An outdated provision to allow the Governor to require announcements to be broadcast announcements relating to election arrangements on the former Falkland Islands Broadcasting Station would be replaced with provision for subsidiary legislation to be made (subject to various safeguards) in relation to:

(a) publicity for the arrangements for elections and referenda; and

(b) regulation of media coverage of campaigns.

(5) Other changes are more technical and would:

(a) bring the Electoral Ordinance into line with the Constitution (following amendments made in 2008):

(b) reflect changes in the structure of the Falkland Islands Government (which included abolition of the post of Government Secretary, meaning that some functions need to be transferred);

(c) to allow candidates’ partners (and not just spouses) to attend counts (but require them to make the same declaration of secrecy if they do); and

(d) correct cross-referencing and other minor errors that have been identified.

Clause 2(2) provides for most of the Ordinance to come into force as soon as it is published in the Gazette. However, clause 2(1) deals separately with the provisions under which the use of tendered ballot papers could be brought to an end: these provisions would not come into force until a date appointed by the Governor.

Clause 4(1) would replace references throughout the entire Electoral Ordinance to the former Legislative Council with references to the Legislative Assembly. There is one exception to this: clause 16(4) would replace the existing version of section 47(4) with a substituted version and the effect of clause 4(2) is that substituted version will still refer to the former Legislative Council.

Clause 5 would amend section 2 to deal with definitions of various terms used elsewhere in the Electoral Ordinance.

Clause 6 would repeal section 4 (which currently defines the meaning of “resident for the qualifying period”). The definition of “qualifying period” would instead be dealt with in a new version of section 8 to be substituted by clause 8.

Clause 7 would replace section 7 (which deals with the appointment of the registration officer for each constituency). The new version would partially reintroduce a disqualification that was previously contained in section 53 but repealed in 2009.

Clause 8 would replace section 8 (which deals with entitlement to be registered as an elector) with a substituted version. As well as there being an attempt to make the existing wording clearer, this would reflect changes that were made to the Constitution in 2008. The substituted version of section 8 would also define “qualifying period”, which is currently defined in section 4.

Clauses 9 to 12 would make amendments relating to “rolling registration”.

Clause 9 would replace section 12 (which deals with the publication of the electoral registers) with a simpler, substituted version.

Clause 10 would replace section 13 (which deals with alterations to the electoral registers) with a substituted version. The provisions relating to rolling registration would be simplified to reflect existing practice in which (except during the “closed period” prior to each election or referendum) the register is updated whenever changes need to be made, rather than just once a month.

Clauses 11 and 12 would replace section 14 (which deals with the effect of a pending election or referendum on the registers) with a substituted version of section 14 and a new section 14A. These would allow for changes to the registers to be made until the beginning of the “closed period” for an election or referendum and provide for new arrangements under which the electoral registers would be published shortly before voting takes place.

Clause 13 would replace section 15 (which deals with the effect of the electoral registers) with a substituted version. As well as there being an attempt to make the existing wording clearer, this would reflect changes that were made to the Constitution in 2008.

Clause 14 would amend section 20 (which deals with a list of those disqualified from being registered to vote) to reflect a change that was made to the Constitution in 2008.

Clause 15 would amend section 37 (which deals with the duration of postal proxy arrangements). This should ensure that it applies to referenda as well as elections.

Clause 16 would amend section 42 (which deals with publicity about electoral registration and about postal, proxy and postal proxy voting). It would provide for additional publicity to be provided prior to a referendum taking place.

Clause 17 would amend section 43 (which deals with the power of the registration officer to require documents to be produced or a statutory declaration to be made). These amendments would reflect changes made to the Constitution in 2008.

Clause 18 would amend section 47 (which deals with the appointment of the returning officer for a constituency. As well as there being an attempt to make the existing wording clearer, this would reflect changes that were made to the Constitution in 2008. The effect of clause 4(2) is that the reference to the former Legislative Council in the amended version of section 47 is not replaced by a reference to the Legislative Assembly by clause 4(1).

Clause 19 would amend section 48 (which deals with writs of election) by transferring functions from the Government Secretary (a post that no longer exists) to the Chief Executive.

Clause 20 would repeal section 57(2) (which currently allows for someone registered to vote by post as a postal voter or a postal proxy voter to vote in person by completing and swearing an oath but which is contradicted by other provisions in the Electoral Ordinance).

Clauses 21, 22 and 23 would replace sections 58, 59 and 61 (which deal with: voting at any polling station; the appointment of polling places; and mobile polling teams in Camp) with substituted versions. As well as there being an attempt to make the existing wording clearer, these should ensure that the provisions apply to referenda as well as elections.

Clause 24 would replace section 62 (which deals with publicity for the arrangements for elections and referenda) with a substituted version. The current version allows the returning officer to require announcements to be broadcast without charge on public broadcasting stations controlled by the Government. The former Falkland Islands Broadcasting Station was transferred to the Media Trust in 2005 and there are now local television services. The substituted version of section 62 would allow the Governor (who would normally have to act on the advice of Executive Council) to make subsidiary legislation dealing with publicity arrangements (which might include requirements for the media to publish or broadcast information or material). To the extent that subsidiary legislation would impose requirements on the media, there would have to be advance consultation and the safeguards in the Constitution are specifically recognised.

Clause 25 would replace section 65 (which deals with consent to nomination) with a substituted version. As well as there being an attempt to make the existing wording clearer, this would reflect changes in communications that have taken place since the original provision was adopted.

Clauses 26 and 27 would replace section 74 (which deals with the requirements for ballot papers) with a substituted version of section 74 and new sections 74A and 74B. As well as there being an attempt to make the existing wording clearer, this should ensure that the requirements apply properly to referenda as well as elections.

Clause 28 would replace section 75 (which deals with official marks) with a substituted version. As well as there being an attempt to make the existing wording clearer, this should ensure that it applies properly to referenda as well as elections.

Clause 29 would amend section 77 (which deals with the duration of the use of public buildings). This should ensure that it applies to referenda as well as elections.

Clause 30 would replace section 80(1A) (which deals with the issue of postal ballot papers for a referendum) with a substituted version. As well as there being an attempt to make the existing wording clearer, this should ensure that it applies properly to referenda.

Clause 31 would amend section 95 (which deals with the custody of postal ballot papers and documents relating to postal voting). As well as there being an attempt to make the existing wording clearer, this would transfer functions from the Government Secretary (a post that no longer exists) to the Chief Executive.

Clause 32 would replace section 96 (which deals with the certified copies of electoral registers and lists used for voting) with a substituted version. This would bring the arrangements for this into line with the new arrangements for rolling registration in sections in section 14 to 14B (see clauses 11 and 12).

Clause 33 would amend section 97 (which deals with the effect of the certified copies). As well as there being an attempt to make the existing wording clearer, this should reflect changes that were made to the Constitution in 2008.

Clause 34 would amend section 98 (which deals with the secrecy of voting). This should ensure that it applies properly to referenda as well as elections.

Clause 35 would amend section 100 (which deals with the appointment and payment of presiding officers and clerks). As well as there being an attempt to make the existing wording clearer, this should ensure that it applies properly to referenda as well as elections.

Clause 36 would amend section 101 (which deals with equipment of polling places and mobile polling teams). As well as there being an attempt to make the existing wording clearer, this should ensure that it applies properly to referenda as well as elections.

Clause 37 would amend section 102 (which deals with the appointment of polling counting agents) to correct a cross-referencing error that has been identified.

Clause 38 would amend section 103 (which deals with a declaration of secrecy to be made by those involved in the conduct of an election or referendum). This would extend the requirement to make a declaration of secrecy to candidates' partners attending a count (and not just candidates' spouses).

Clause 39 would repeal section 109 (which currently deals with the situation in which a postal voter attends to vote in person). This situation would instead be dealt with in a new section 110A to be inserted by clause 40. As well as there being an attempt to make the existing wording clearer, this should ensure that it applies properly to referenda as well as elections.

Clauses 41 and 42 would replace sections 111 and 112 (which deal with the situations in which: a person registered to vote by proxy attends to vote in person; and a proxy voter registered to vote by post attends to vote in person). As well as there being an attempt to make the existing wording clearer, these should ensure that the provisions apply properly to referenda as well as elections.

Clause 43 would amend a cross-reference in section 113 to reflect the changes made by clauses 39 and 40.

Clause 44 would repeal section 116 (which currently deals with tendered ballot papers) and clause 45 would amend section 119 (which deals with the procedure to be followed as soon as voting ends) to remove references to tendered ballot papers. These provisions would not come into effect until a day appointed by the Governor by notice published in the Gazette.

Clause 46 would amend section 121 (which deals with attendance at a count) to allow candidates' partners to attend the count by right (and not just candidates' spouses).

Clause 47 would amend section 122 (which deals with the process of counting votes) in various ways. Subsection (2) would replace section 122(2) with a substituted version. As well as there being an attempt to make the wording clearer, this would reflect changes made to sections 109 to 112 (see clauses 39 to 42). Subsections (3) and (4) would make changes relating to the proposed abolition of tendered ballot papers – these subsections would not come into effect until a day appointed by the Governor by notice published in the Gazette. Subsection (5) would correct a cross-referencing error in section 122(6) that has been identified.

Clause 48 would amend section 129 (which deals with the sealing of ballot papers after counting) to make a change relating to the proposed abolition of tendered ballot papers. This provision would not come into effect until a day appointed by the Governor by notice published in the Gazette.

Clauses 49 to 51 would make amendments relating to: the custody of ballot papers, documents, etc formerly carried out by the Government Secretary; orders for their production; and their retention, public inspection and eventual destruction.

Clause 49 would replace section 130 (which currently deals with the forwarding of ballot papers, documents, etc to the Government Secretary for safe keeping) with a substituted version. Since the post of Government Secretary no longer exists, the substituted version would instead impose obligations on the returning officer to arrange for the safe custody of these items. As well as there also being an attempt to make the wording clearer, this should also ensure that it applies properly to referenda as well as elections.

Clause 50 would amend section 131 (which deals with court orders for production of ballot papers, documents, etc from safe custody) by replacing references to the Government Secretary with references to the returning officer.

Clause 51 would replace section 132 (which deals with the retention, public inspection and destruction of ballot papers, documents, etc) with a substituted version. Since the post of Government Secretary no longer exists, the substituted version would (as well as there also being an attempt to make the wording clearer) instead impose obligations on the returning officer to arrange for these matters.

Clause 52 would amend section 142 (which deals with unauthorised election expenses). As well as there being an attempt to make the wording of what is currently section 142(1)(c) clearer, this would replace a reference to the former Falkland Islands Broadcasting Station with a more general reference to broadcasting stations licensed under the Telecommunications Ordinance (Title 70.1) or the Broadcasting Ordinance (Title 70.4).

Clause 53 would replace section 152 (which deals with the inspection of candidates' returns and declarations) with a substituted version. Since the post of Government Secretary no longer exists, the substituted version would instead impose obligations on the returning officer to arrange for returns and declarations to be open for public inspection and then destroyed after at least 2 years. As well as there also being an attempt to make the wording clearer, it would also increase the fee for copies of documents from 20p per page to 26p per page.

Clause 54 would insert a new section 152A. This would allow the Governor (who would normally have to act on the advice of Executive Council) to make subsidiary legislation regulating media coverage during election and referendum campaigns (which might include requirements for the media to publish or broadcast information or material or restrictions on information or material being published or broadcast). To the extent that subsidiary legislation would impose requirements or restrictions on the media, there would have to be advance consultation and the safeguards in the Constitution are specifically recognised.

Clauses 55 and 56 would amend sections 164 and 165 (which deal with bribery and treating) to ensure that they apply to referenda as well as elections.

Clauses 57 and 58 would replace section 166 (which currently deals with exceptions from the provisions relating to campaigns and expenses) with a substituted version of section 166 and a new section 166A. As well as there being an attempt to make the wording clearer, the substituted version of section 166 should ensure that someone who is declared as a candidate without consenting to nomination remains exempt from the campaign and expense provisions. As well as there (again) being an attempt to make the wording clearer, the new section 166A should ensure that the provision relating to time off for voting applies properly to referenda as well as elections.

Clause 59 would replace section 167A (which provides for judicial review to be the only method of challenging a referendum result) with a substituted version in an attempt to make the wording clearer.

Clause 60 would amend section 174 (which deals with the trial of election petitions) to reflect changes that were made to the Constitution in 2008.

Clause 61 would amend section 201 (which deals with vacation petitions and cesser petitions) to reflect a change that was made to the Constitution in 2008.

Clause 62 would replace section 204 (which deals with the evidential status of certificates issued by the Attorney General and the Governor) with a substituted version. As well as there being an attempt to make the wording clearer, this would reflect changes that were made to the Constitution in 2008.

Clause 63 would amend section 207 (which deals with the powers of the Governor in a situation in which an ex officio member of the Legislative Assembly is ordered by the Supreme Court to cease performing functions as a member of the Legislative Assembly) to reflect a change that was made to the Constitution in 2008.

Clause 64 would insert a new section 210A to deal with situations in which something must be done in a prescribed way but regulations have not been made to prescribe the way in which it is to be done. The new section 210A would make it clear that, in those circumstances, the thing may be done in whatever way is reasonable.

SCHEDULE 1
SINGLE CONSTITUENCY BILL

Single Constituency Bill 2011

(No.        of 2011)

ARRANGEMENT OF PROVISIONS

Clause

1. Title
2. Commencement
3. Section 27 of the Constitution amended – Constituencies

(No.      of 2011)

for

To provide for a single constituency for elections to the Legislative Assembly

BE IT ENACTED by the Legislature of the Falkland Islands —

1. Title

This Ordinance is the Single Constituency Ordinance.

2. Commencement

This Ordinance comes into force when the Legislative Assembly is dissolved for the first time after this Ordinance is published in the Gazette.

3. Section 27 of the Constitution amended – Constituencies

Section 27 of the Constitution is amended by omitting subsections (1) and (2) and substituting the following —

(1) There is a single constituency in the Falkland Islands for the election of members to the Legislative Assembly

(2) The manner in which the eight members are elected to the Legislative Assembly must be prescribed by Ordinance.

OBJECTS AND REASONS

As matters stand

- Section 27(1) of the Constitution provides for the Falkland Islands to be divided into two constituencies: Camp (which returns three elected members to the Legislative Assembly) and Stanley (which returns five elected members to the Legislative Assembly). It provides for the manner in which members are elected to be prescribed by Ordinance.

- Section 27(2) of the Constitution provides for the boundaries of the Stanley constituency to be prescribed by the Ordinance that makes provision for elections to the Legislative Assembly. It provides for the remainder of the Falkland Islands to be the Camp constituency.

Section 27(3) of the Constitution allows for sections 27(1) and section 27(2) to be amended by Ordinance. However, it imposes a requirement that, for such an amendment to be made, it has to have been supported in a referendum by at least two-thirds of those voting in each of the constituencies.

This Bill would amend sections 27(1) and 27(2) of the Constitution to replace the separate Camp and Stanley constituencies with a single constituency for the whole of the Falkland Islands.

It would not change the total number of members elected to the Legislative Assembly. That is fixed at eight by section 26(2) of the Constitution.

SCHEDULE 2 BALLOT PAPERS

1. Size of ballot papers

Each ballot paper used in the referendum must be —

- (a) at least 200 millimetres by 140 millimetres in size;
- (b) no more than 220 millimetres by 160 millimetres in size; and
- (c) as far as possible (allowing for reasonable tolerance), the same size as the other ballot papers used in the referendum.

2. Front of ballot paper

(1) The front of each ballot paper must be in (or substantially in) the following form —

REFERENDUM – 3 November 2011 CAMP/STANLEY CONSTITUENCY
DO YOU WANT A SINGLE CONSTITUENCY FOR THE WHOLE OF THE ISLANDS?
YES I support the Single Constituency Bill
NO I oppose the Single Constituency Bill

MARK ONE BOX ONLY WITH A CROSS (X) OR A TICK (✓)

If you want a single constituency for the whole of the Islands, mark the YES box
If you want separate constituencies for Camp and Stanley, mark the NO box

(2) The heading of the ballot papers to be used for each constituency must be amended to refer to that constituency.

3. Back of ballot paper

The back of each ballot paper must be blank apart from its serial number.

SCHEDULE 3
OFFICIAL LEAFLET

1. Size of official leaflet

Every copy of the official leaflet must be at least 280 millimetres by 200 millimetres in size.

2. Front of official leaflet

(1) The front of each copy of the official leaflet must be in (or substantially in) the following form —

There is going to be
a referendum
on 3 November 2011

You will be asked this question:

*DO YOU WANT A SINGLE CONSTITUENCY
FOR THE WHOLE OF THE ISLANDS?*

If you want a single constituency for the whole of the Islands:
vote "YES"

If you want separate constituencies for Camp and Stanley:
vote "NO"

3. Back of official leaflet

(1) The back of each copy of the official leaflet must be in (or substantially in) the following form —

How is the Assembly elected now?

There are two constituencies in the Islands:

- Camp, which elects 3 members to the Legislative Assembly
- Stanley, which elects 5 members to the Legislative Assembly

On [reference date], there were [260] voters in Camp and [1313] voters in Stanley.

So, having these two constituencies means that there is:

- one member for every [87] voters in Camp
- one member for every [263] voters in Stanley

Single Constituency Bill

The Single Constituency Bill would amend the Constitution to replace the two constituencies with a single constituency. If it becomes law, voters throughout the Islands would elect all 8 members of the Legislative Assembly.

That would give everyone (in Camp and in Stanley) more choice about who to vote for. However, it might mean that none of the 8 members of the Legislative Assembly comes from Camp or that none of them comes from Stanley.

The Legislative Assembly can only pass the Bill if two-thirds or more of those voting in Camp and two-thirds or more of those voting in Stanley support the Bill by voting "Yes". If that happens (and only if that happens), there could be a single constituency to elect all 8 members of the Legislative Assembly.

If a third or more of those voting in Camp or a third or more of those voting in Stanley oppose the Bill by voting "No", the Bill cannot be passed and the two constituencies will stay separate.

The Single Constituency Bill has been published in the Falkland Islands Gazette. If you want a copy of the Bill, you should contact the Registration Officer, either by phoning 27269 or by visiting the Registry in the Town Hall.

What about the voting system?

In 2001, the referendum was not just about whether or not there should be a single constituency but also about a voting system for elections.

To keep things simpler this time, the referendum on 3 November 2011 is only about whether there should be a single constituency.

What happens next?

The referendum will be held on 3 November 2011. Information about when and where to vote will be announced nearer the time.

If you are registered to vote, you will be able to vote in the referendum.

If you are entitled to vote but are not registered, you should register to make sure that you can have your say on this issue.

If you want to check whether or not you are registered to vote or if you have any queries about registering to vote, you should contact the Registration Officer, either by phoning 27269 or by visiting the Registry in the Town Hall.

4. Reference date

- (1) The registration officer must select a date to be the reference date for the purposes of this paragraph and paragraph 5.
- (2) The reference date must be a date within the four week period before the registration officer starts to distribute copies of the official leaflet.
- (3) The reference date must not be more than three months before the referendum date.

(4) The reference in square brackets on the back of the official leaflet to the reference date must be changed to refer to the reference date selected under sub-paragraph (1).

5. Use of updated numbers in official leaflet

(1) Sub-paragraph (2) applies to the following numbers in square brackets on the back of the official leaflet —

(a) the number of voters in Camp;

(b) the number of voters in Stanley;

(c) the number of voters in Camp (to the nearest whole number) for which there is one member of the Legislative Assembly; and

(d) the number of voters in Stanley (to the nearest whole number) for which there is one member of the Legislative Assembly.

(2) The numbers to which this sub-paragraph applies must be changed to refer to the numbers that applied on the reference date.

SCHEDULE 4

NOTICE TO BE DISPLAYED AT POLLING PLACES AND DURING VISITS BY MOBILE POLLING TEAMS

1. Size of notice

(1) Every copy of the notice must be at least 280 millimetres by 200 millimetres in size.

(2) At least one copy of the notice displayed at each polling place and during each visit by a mobile team must be at least 400 millimetres by 280 millimetres in size.

2. Form of notice

The notice must be in (or substantially in) the following form —

That would give everyone (in Camp and in Stanley) more choice about who to vote for. However, it might mean that none of the 8 members of the Legislative Assembly comes from Camp or that none of them comes from Stanley

The Legislative Assembly can only pass the Bill if two-thirds or more of those voting in Camp and two-thirds or more of those voting in Stanley support the Bill by voting "Yes". If that happens (and only if that happens), there could be a single constituency to elect all 8 members of the Legislative Assembly

If a third or more of those voting in Camp or a third or more of those voting in Stanley oppose the Bill by voting "No", the Bill cannot be passed and the two constituencies will stay separate.

If you want to see a copy of the Bill before voting, please ask the person in charge.

If you want a single constituency for the whole of the Islands:

vote "YES"

If you want separate constituencies for Camp and Stanley:

vote "NO"

3. Use of updated numbers in notice

(1) Sub-paragraph (2) applies to the following numbers in square brackets on the notice —

(a) the number of voters in Camp;

(b) the number of voters in Stanley;

(c) the number of voters in Camp (to the nearest whole number) for which there is one member of the Legislative Assembly; and

- (d) the number of voters in Stanley (to the nearest whole number) for which there is one member of the Legislative Assembly.
- (2) The numbers to which this sub-paragraph applies must be changed to the numbers that apply on the referendum date.

OBJECTS AND REASONS

This Bill would amend the Offshore Minerals Ordinance (Title 53.1), and would come into force on publication.

Clause 4 would repeal and replace section 64 of the Ordinance which sets out the definitions used in sections 65 to 67 of the Ordinance when dealing with environmental impact assessment.

Clause 5 would insert new sections 64A, 64B and 64C into the Ordinance.

The new section 64A would provide that an environmental impact assessment must be conducted, and an environmental impact statement prepared and submitted to the Governor (in Executive Council), before an application for consent to drill a well is submitted.

The new section 64B would apply to other applications for consents under the Ordinance. If the Governor, having regard to the matters listed in schedule 5, considered that the environment might be significantly affected if an application were to be granted, the Governor should require the applicant to undertake environmental assessment and submit an environmental impact statement.

The new section 64C would provide that any environmental impact statement should contain at least the information specified in schedule 4. The applicant should publish the environmental impact statement and consult upon it in accordance with sections 65, 65A and 65B. The Governor should not determine the application until all these requirements have been met. Provision is made for conditions to be attached to any consent for the purpose of eliminating or reducing significant adverse effects on the environment associated with the project, remedying those effects if possible, or offsetting them.

Clause 6 would repeal and replace section 65 of the Ordinance. Section 65 is concerned with the commencement of the publication and consultation process, the closure of the period allowed for that process, and the follow-up period allowed for comments from the applicant in response to any public comments.

Clause 7 would insert new sections 65A and 65B into the Ordinance. The new section 65A would provide for publication of the environmental impact statement. The new section 65B would require the Governor to send to the applicant any representations received from the public on the environmental impact statement, and to give the applicant opportunity to respond.

Clause 8 would repeal and replace sections 66 and 67 of the Ordinance. Section 66 would empower the Governor to require an applicant to submit further information or evidence in relation to any environmental impact statement which it has submitted.

Section 67 would empower the Governor to waive the requirement for an environmental impact assessment or environmental impact statement in any case where the Governor is satisfied that the environment would not be significantly affected. In making such a decision the Governor should have regard to the matters set out in schedule 5.

Clause 9 would insert a new section 67A into the Ordinance. The new section 67A would empower the Governor to waive the requirement for environmental assessment in any case where an environmental impact statement has been submitted previously. The Governor should be satisfied that that there would be no effects on the environment that would be either substantially different from or significantly greater than the effects mentioned in the previous environmental impact statement.

Clause 10 would repeal and replace schedule 4, which sets out the information which should be included in any environmental impact statement.

Clause 11 would insert a new schedule 5 into the Ordinance. Schedule 5 would detail the matters which should be taken into account in deciding whether the project which is the subject matter of an application might have a significant effect on the environment.

OBJECTS AND REASONS

This Bill would amend the Jury Ordinance (Title 22.5): primarily, to expand the pool of potential jurors for Supreme Court trials and to make consequential amendments arising from that change; but also to reflect changes in the Constitution since the Jury Ordinance was last amended and to make two minor corrections to it.

Qualification for jury service, etc

Section 3 of the Jury Ordinance deals with qualification for jury service.

Currently, only those who are registered to vote, who are ordinarily resident in the Falkland Islands and who have been ordinarily resident in the Falkland Islands for at least 5 years since the age of 13 are qualified to serve on a jury. This means that the only people who can currently serve on a jury are those satisfying the ordinary residence requirements who hold Falkland Islands Status and who are also British Citizens, British Overseas Territories Citizens or British Overseas Citizens (or who were already registered to vote under the previous Constitution).

Clause 4 would insert new definitions (used in other amendments) into the interpretation section of the Ordinance (section 2).

Clause 5 would replace the existing section 3 with a new section providing for an expanded pool of potential jurors. Anyone who is registered to vote (on the basis of Falkland Islands Status and citizenship) would remain eligible to serve on a jury. Holders of permanent residence permits would become eligible to serve on a jury. Holders of work permits and residence permits (and their dependants named on permits) would also become eligible to serve on a jury, but only those who have been ordinarily resident in the Islands throughout the preceding 12 months.

The small number of people who have Falkland Islands Status but who are not British Citizens, British Overseas Territories Citizens or British Overseas Citizens will still not be able to serve on a jury (unless they were already registered to vote under the previous Constitution).

Clauses 6 to 8 would make consequential amendments.

Currently, the provision that anyone qualified for jury service is potentially liable for it is contained in section 3. Clause 6 would move that to a new section 3A.

Section 5 currently provides for marked copies of the electoral registers to be provided to the Registrar of the Supreme Court to be used as the basis for summoning jurors. The combined effect of clauses 6 and 8 would be to move that to a new section 3B and allow the Registrar to obtain information from both registration officers (about those registered to vote) and the Principal Immigration Officer (about those holding permits or named on them).

Clause 7 would amend section 4 (which deals with the summoning of jurors) to provide for the arrangements for summoning those holding permits or named on them, as well as for summoning those on the electoral registers.

Clause 9 would make a connected change by limiting the excusal from further jury service from those who actually serve on a jury and no longer granting excusal to those who attend to perform jury service but who do not actually serve on a jury.

Clause 10 would amend the Schedule to make amendments reflecting the changes that have been made to the Constitution since the Jury Ordinance was last amended. It would also remove a provision in the Schedule that duplicates part of the current version of section 3 (and that is being amended in any event).

for

AN ORDINANCE

To reform the law of domicile for married women.

BE IT ENACTED by the Legislature of the Falkland Islands —

1. Title

This Ordinance is the Domicile (Reform) Ordinance 2011.

2. Commencement

This Ordinance comes into force on publication in the Gazette.

3. Abolition of dependent domicile for married women

The rule of law that a married woman automatically has the same domicile as her husband no longer applies.

4. Transitional provision for women married when Ordinance comes into force

(1) This section applies to women who are married when this Ordinance comes into force.

(2) A woman to whom this section applies is initially to be treated as retaining her husband's domicile (as a domicile of choice, if it is not also her domicile of origin).

(3) Subsection (2) no longer applies to a woman if —

(a) she subsequently acquires a new domicile of choice; or

(b) her domicile of origin subsequently revives.

(4) Whether a woman to whom this section applies has acquired a new domicile of choice (or if her domicile of origin has revived) is to be ascertained by reference to the same factors as apply to anyone else who is capable of having an independent domicile.

(5) Once subsection (2) no longer applies to a woman, her domicile continues to be ascertained by reference to those factors.

5. Domicile of women marrying after Ordinance comes into force

(1) Subsection (2) applies to women who marry after this Ordinance comes into force.

(2) The domicile of a woman to whom this subsection applies is to be ascertained at all times by reference to the same factors as apply to anyone else who is capable of having an independent domicile.

OBJECTS AND REASONS

This Bill would reform the law of domicile for married women.

At present, it is still a rule of law that a married woman is incapable of having an independent domicile in her own right and she automatically has the same domicile as her husband.

Clause 3 would abolish that rule of law.

Clause 4 makes transitional provision for women who are married when the Ordinance comes into force. They would initially retain the husbands' domiciles but would become capable of having domiciles of their own in the future.

Under clause 5, women marrying after the Ordinance comes into force would always remain capable of having their own domiciles.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

Section 9A of the Taxes and Duties (Special Exemptions) Ordinance (Title 69.2) gives the Governor power to make orders granting exemptions from income tax and retirement pension contributions to certain individuals engaged in defence-based employment. Such orders can only be made on the advice of the Standing Finance Committee.

This order means that employees who work for one of the employers listed in the Schedule are exempt from income tax and retirement pension contributions until the end of 2012, provided that they are engaged in relevant employment (as defined) and the other requirements set out in section 9A of the Ordinance are met.

The effect of this order (which replaces a previous order) is to extend the existing exemption (which would otherwise expire at the end of 2011) to the end of 2012.

EXPLANATORY NOTE (not part of the order)

This order allows for part of the Stanley – Darwin road to be closed during demining operations to be carried out on Stanley Common in early 2012 but only when necessary to protect health and safety.

While the road is closed, proceeding onto it or remaining there will be prohibited, as will various other traffic-related activities. The order makes doing any of these things while the road is closed an offence, punishable by a fine of up to £4,000.

The order requires signs to be displayed while the road is closed and allows for physical barriers to be erected. It makes interfering with signs and/or barriers an offence, also punishable by a fine of up to £4,000.

The order will expire on 30 June 2012.

The order was made without consulting Executive Council in advance because it was not possible to consult Executive Council in advance and the need to make the order only became apparent at a late stage. That is permitted by section 66(2)(d) of the Constitution.

OBJECTS AND REASONS

This Bill would make two changes to the Taxes Ordinance (Title 69.1) and a change to the Medical Services Tax Ordinance (No 13 of 2010).

It would come into force on 1 January 2012 (the start of the new tax year).

Clauses 4 and 5 would replace the existing civil penalty provision in section 12(4) with a new section 12A.

Section 12(4) currently provides for a civil penalty of £100 to be imposed if a taxpayer does not supply accounts or other information under section 12(2).

Clause 5 would extend that to other failures to comply with section 12 (failure to submit a tax return by the due date or to notify the Commissioner of Taxation in time about new sources of chargeable income). It would also provide for a further penalty of £200 to be imposed if the requirement has still not been complied with three months after the due date. This would be in addition to the initial penalty of £100 rather than instead of it, as at present.

Clause 6 would replace section 57(1)(e) (which deals with exemption for emoluments for those serving in the armed forces and working for the UK Government) with two new paragraphs: (e) and (ea). The effect of this would be to tighten the existing exemption, so that it would no longer apply to those who have been recruited locally to work for the UK Government.

Clause 7 would make a corresponding change to the Medical Services Tax Ordinance.
