I think this is excellent material - three other similar designs could make a very attractive set. However, we have a very similar stamp in the 'Conservation' suggestions. We don't want to become too thematic! I would suggest we go ahead with the Mammals set and ask Mr. Strange to re-design the Conservation stamp by deleting the porpoise and adding a second specie of seal.

We had thought of a 'Kelp' issue years and years ago - infact it is in our stamp programme for 1979. I am sure Mr. Strange could produce some very interesting designs on the Kelp theme and suggest he be asked to produce a sample.

Stamp Designs

Dear Sir,

Further to our conversation regarding stamp designs covering the theme of Seaweeds, it is understood that the five rough designs submitted to you have been approved by the Stamp Committee and that a request has been made for the final art work to be produced.

I have noted the terms for such work as laid out in (copy of letter from Crown Agents Ref HI/FALK IS 4/31594 your ref: P&T/2/26) The fees of 25£ for each accepted rough and £75 for each piece of finished art work are acceptable. I also agree to the fees for First Day Covers ie £20 for rough design and £25 for the completed art work. However on the question of invoicing for the entire work on completion of the commission this is not acceptable. It will be appreciated that a considerable amount of both research and art work has already gone into the rough designs. I would therefore request that fees for accepted roughs be paid at this stage, with final art work fees being invoiced for on completion of that work. This arrangement would greatly facilitate special outlays expected in the production of the final art work.

In our conversation we also discussed the Marine Mammal theme which I proposed some time back. I would be quite prepared to work on this design and submit roughs for your approval, but again feel that the commission should have a small measure of insurance for the artist prior to commencement of the work. I would therefore propose that a fee of £25 might be paid at the time the commission is accepted. This fee to be deducted from payment made for accepted roughs, but should the roughs not be acceptable and the design abandoned the artist would retain this initial fee to help cover a percentage of time incurred.

Should the above be acceptable I would be grateful if you could inform me at your earliest convenience so that final work might be started on these themes this winter.

If it would be helpful to your own plans it would probably be possible to submit roughs of the Marine Mammal theme before the first week in May.

Yours faithfully,

Stamp Designs

Thank you for your letter of 24th April. We agree that payment may be made for accepted rough designs at £25 each for the Kelp Issue.

STAMP DESIGNS : DOLPHIN AND PORPOISE

Notes on rough designs.

As the subjects of the theme for this design are generally black and white a lot more attention will be given to the background colouring in any final design work. Example, although "green" may be used for the backing of one particular design, it is proposed to shade these colours, so in effect obtaining a variation in colour and adding depth to the whole design.

Five species of Dolphin and Porpoise, including the "Killer Whale" which is a true dolphin, have been shown. One other species is a possibility but expert advice is awaited on this. It is suggested that if a sixth species can be used, then this might replace the Killer whale, thus leaving this species free for use in a further set depicting a different group of marine mammals, which might be used in the future.

Although a silhouette of HM has been used on the roughs it is proposed to use the Royal Cipher on final work.

Dear Mr. Massingham,

THE FALKLAND ISLANDS POSTAGE STAMP ISSUES

- i) MARINE MAMMALS - 1979
- ii) CONSERVATION - 1981
- iii) KELP - 1983

I have recently reviewed the status of each of the above stamp issues and find that my understanding of the progress of each is vague to say the least.

I admit some confusion has arisen because reference to the production of the three sets has been made in various correspondence from both your office and Mr Strange. Therefore, I would appreciate your appraisal of the artwork produced to date so we may proceed accordingly.

I take each issue in order of release.

i) 1979 - MARINE MAMMALS:

P&T/2/33 ✓

This set is the most pressing since a release date is planned for next year. Regrettably, I see that we had not formally commissioned Mr Strange to prepare the artwork so I enclose our letter of commission and request you to forward it to him. Also enclosed is a copy for your records.

.....

I understand Mr Strange has already submitted five rough designs for your approval which I would like to view before he prepares the finished artworks so we may assess their suitability for printing and make any necessary constructive criticism at this early stage in production.

I would reiterate our customary warning that time is of the essence in the production of all stamp issues. Thus we would like to complete the artwork as soon as possible to avoid any subsequent delay which might jeopardise the proposed release date.

X

In your reply, will you please advise the release date planned as well as your local requirements, if known at this stage.

/ ii)

To Mr J Massingham

Date 15 March 1978

ii) 1981 - CONSERVATION:

Although the scheduled release date is more than three years away your early advice on the design concept would be valued. I would be happy to undertake any research on your behalf.

We originally commissioned Mr Strange, at your request, to prepare this artwork in our letter dated November 1975. We would point out that there has been a subsequent increase in our artists' fees since that time. Therefore, you may find our letter to Doug Morrison H1/1618 of 9 January helpful in determining the scale of fees now due.

iii) 1983 - KELP:

Our comments concerning the early preparation of designs also apply to the Kelp set.

I understand Mr Strange has completed five designs and I would like to see them before the finished artwork is completed.

..... You will find enclosed a rough design submitted by Mr J E Cooter at the instigation of Major Spafford. I do not know whether you will be interested in it since you have already viewed Mr Strange's work on this subject. However, I enclose it for your comments.

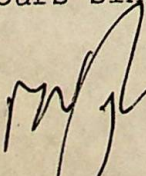

In addition to a status report on each of these issues, I would like to clarify the matter of settling Mr Strange's invoices in respect of his commission.

As you know, it appears we cannot pay Mr Strange direct by airmail transfer of funds because there is no bank on the Falkland Islands. Therefore it would seem best policy if you were to continue the practise of reimbursing Mr Strange locally in accordance with the fees offered in our commissioning letters.

However, if this means of payment is not acceptable, will you kindly let me know and at the same time advise an alternative method of remittance so we may overcome this problem of lack of banking facilities in the Islands.

I now look forward to your advice on these stamp issues.

Yours sincerely

M VAUGHAN

Dear Mr Strange

FALKLAND ISLANDS "MARINE MAMMALS" STAMP ISSUE

I regret the delay in confirming your commission to prepare the designs in respect of the Marine Mammals stamp issue. However, will you please design this special set of five stamps and First Day Cover as discussed with the Falklands Island Secretariat.

The fees payable for this work, subject to acceptance of each design, are:-

- i) Stamp artwork
  - £35.00 for each rough design
  - £95.00 for each finished design
- ii) First Day Cover artwork
  - £25.00 for the rough design
  - £40.00 for the finished design

Please note that if any photo setting for lettering and overlays etcetera is to be done in England, then the above fees may be slightly reduced.

As with the 'Kelp' and 'Conservation' stamp issues, the required finished stamp size is to be 28.45mm x 42.58mm. Therefore the finished artwork size should be 102mm x 158mm. This allows a white border around the design.

I understand you have already submitted the rough designs to Mr Massingham, Chief Secretary. I would also like to view them before you prepare the finished artwork so that we may assess their suitability for printing and make any necessary constructive criticism at an early stage in production.

I look forward to receiving your acceptance of this commission as well as the rough artwork.

Dear Mr Vaughan

FALKLAND ISLANDS "MARINE MAMMALS" STAMP ISSUE

Thank you for your letter ref PH1B/FALK IS 7/23608 dated the 15th March 1978 sent c/o the Chief Secretary, Secretariat, Stanley.

This letter serves to accept the commission for the above issue as laid out in your letter. Acknowledgement has also been forwarded to the Chief Secretary.

As the rough artwork for this issue had been accepted some time ago I had already commenced work on the final artwork. I appreciate now your need to view the rough artwork before continuing and would indeed welcome all the constructive criticism you can give me.

However, as I have proceeded to the final work I have elected to enclose one rough (landscape form) and one partly completed final artwork (vertical form) which, except for background colour, are representative of the set. I was hoping that these two alone may be sufficient to comment on at the present, thus giving me the remainder to slowly work at in the interim period. I hope this arrangement might meet with your approval but if the others were required I would of course send them on.

Although I have had some training in graphic art you will appreciate this type of design work is new to me. I am therefore very anxious to keep within the rules of this particular work. With this in mind I therefore attach to the two pieces of artwork a number of queries and wondered if you would be kind enough to comment please ?

I await your reply with interest.

Yours sincerely,

Dear Doug,

Marine Mammal Issue of stamps

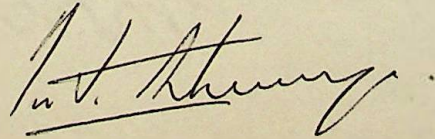

As requested through the Crown Agents letter dated the 15th March 78 their Ref. PH1B/FALK IS 7/23608 I ~~except~~ the commission to prepare the above issue of stamps.

At the time of submitting the rough artwork for this issue the possibility of including one other species for illustration was mentioned. I am now able to confirm that we do have six species of Dolphin and Porpoise in these waters and therefore wondered if you would wish to include this in the set; instead of the proposed five stamps there could be six.

Enclosed is an acknowledgement (original and copy) to Mr Vaughan's above letter together with one art rough and one part completed finished artwork for the Marine Mammal designs. Perhaps you would be kind enough to enclose the original letter with this art work which queries a number of technical points.

As I had already started on the final artwork before receipt of Mr Vaughan's letter I thought it best to forward the part completed finished artwork of one stamp and one rough for any necessary constructive criticism.

Yours sincerely,

I.J.Strange.

Dear Mike,

MAMMALS ISSUE 1979

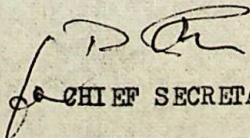

I attach a letter to you, from Ian Strange, a copy of a letter to me, and two pieces of artwork for you to view and comment on.

At one time it was thought that there were only five species of dolphin and porpoise in these waters but Ian Strange has had in confirmed that there are six. While not challenging his knowledge or information passed to him, we think it prudent to get you to do a check on this but I shall write about this later.

Do you see any objection to a six stamp issue? We think this is a bit much, but could keep the overall cost down. An alternative would be to issue six stamps but have some stamps of the same value (different mammals). We will be having five stamps in the Kelp issue totalling 58p and naturally do not wish to overdo the numbers of stamps in short sets.

I should be grateful for your views on the wisdom of a six stamp issue, if possible before you comment on the design and other points raised by Ian Strange, so that we can tell him what the position is: you may even wish to telegraph.

Yours faithfully,

~~MEMORANDUM~~ ~~ISSUE~~ to para 2 of my letter of 13th April.

Ian Strange is a very knowledgeable person and has good contacts in the scientific world and has said that there are six species of dolphin and porpoise in these waters. In view of the need to be absolutely right in these matters I am wondering if you would arrange for a check to be made that the attached list of species are true dolphins or porpoises which inhabit these waters.

2. Having asked you to undertake this check I am at a loss to suggest with whom you can check it. However, if the British Antarctic Survey cannot help you, no doubt they will be able to recommend someone who can.

MAMMALS ISSUE 1979

Thank you for your letter <sup>(17)</sup> P & T/2/33 of the 13 April.
I can see no reason for objection to a six stamp issue if this covers* all the species of dolphin and porpoise around your coastline. It all depends rather on the face value of the total set, really. If it is kept reasonably low the collector will feel rather that he is getting good value

DOLPHINS AND PORPOISES ISSUE 1979

Thank you for your letter of 24th April.

2. We are currently giving thought to the values for this issue (we haven't decided yet on five or six stamps) and would like your advice on issuing three or four stamps of the same value, like the British Post Office did with their recent issue featuring foxes etc. We are thinking of 4 x 3p, 1 x 11p, 1 x 25p, all of which are genuine postal rates.

3. As Marine Mammals is too wide a description for this issue we are going to narrow it to Dolphins and Porpoises issue.

2. MAMMALS ISSUE

This issue in future to be known as Dolphins and Porpoises issue. Where possible Mr Strange should make the background colours different. Crown Agents have been asked to confirm that the six suggested mammals were true dolphins or porpoises and that they inhabit these waters. Issue would probably be reduced to five stamps by omitting the killer whale which is a true dolphin. It was also agreed to enquire of the Crown Agents about the propriety of using the same stamp values on different stamps.

FALKLAND ISLANDS STAMP ISSUE 1979: MARINE MAMMALS
DOLPHINS AND PORPOISES

Further to your letter<sup>(1)</sup> of 26 April, I am pleased to inform you that I have written to Dr Laws, the Director of the British Antarctic Survey and asked him to let me have a list of the dolphins and porpoises indigenous to the Falkland Islands' seas.

Unfortunately, when your letter reached me, the list, detailing the subjects of the stamp designs, was not attached. Therefore, will you kindly let me have another so I may compare the species with those advised by the BAS.

Dear Mr Morrison

DOLPHINS & PORPOISES ISSUE 1979

Thank you for your letter of 8 May.

I have spoken to my colleagues on the sales side and they consider that you could quite reasonably push the total face value for six stamps up to about 60p or 70p. Obviously six stamps does involve you in a little more expense so you may like to consider increasing the value. The lower total cost would be more attractive to the collectors, obviously, as some sort of "bargain offer".

yours sincerely

Dear Doug,

Enclosed please find the six finished designs together with finished art work for a First Day Cover for the above issue as per Crown Agents letter of commission; Mr Vaughan 15th March 78, PH1B/FALK IS 7/23608.

The six finished designs are as follows:

- 3p Peale's Porpoise
- 6p Commerson's Dolphin
- 7p Hour-Glass Dolphin
- 11p Spectacled Porpoise
- 15p Dusky Dolphin
- 25p Killer Whale or Grampus

DOLPHINS & PORPOISES ISSUE

We have been in touch with the Sea Mammal Research Unit BAS who make the following comments:

- "1) Commerson's Dolphin - frequently seen, and stranded specimens recorded
- 2) Dusky Dolphin - stranded specimen recorded
- 3) Peale's Dolphin - frequently seen, and stranded specimens recorded (Better to use name Peale's Dolphin which is accepted internationally)
- 4) Spectacled Porpoise - stranded specimens recorded (Phocogena is the correct spelling)
- 5) Hourglass Dolphin (Lagenorhynchus cruciger)
- There are two sight records at sea, both some distance from the Falkland Islands, but it probably occurs in the waters off the islands
(The accepted name is Hourglass Dolphin; there is no such animal as Cruciger's Dolphin, but the name Cruciger Dolphin has been used in the past).

On the above basis, the first four species occur in the waters of the Falkland Islands, and the fifth probably also does."

2 I presume that you will now ask Ian Strange to produce rough artwork for us to submit to Her Majesty. I look forward to hearing from you

Dear Doug,

Dolphins & Porpoises Issue

I refer to Brian Hawthorne's letter <sup>(SI)</sup> of 28th June with comments on the above issue. It is always very helpful to obtain further comments on such matters and for these I am grateful.

Commerson's and Peale's Dolphin we know well here and the art work is taken from many observations made in the field. For most of the other species I have had to rely on notes of stranded specimens, photographs and descriptions by a few other observers.

In the case of the Hourglass Dolphin, I believe I was in fact responsible for giving you the old title of Cruciger, but you will note that the former name is shown on the art work. The species was included in our list as we have authentic records of the animal in Falkland waters - in fact my art work is taken from a photograph of a specimen stranded on one of the west islands. Unfortunately as BAS do not extend their studies to these Islands they would not have been aware of this. Most of our records of such animals go direct to Dr Fraser of the British Museum, to whom we have always looked as the expert on such animals; this in turn has led me to take such nomenclature as Peale's Porpoise, which Dr Fraser uses, as opposed to Dolphin.

The question of nomenclature and actual descriptions of species I do view as a slight problem, not only with such mammals but with some of our birds, therefore I feel it might be helpful if I could be permitted to make the following comments.

In the case of the Order Cetacea there are many varying views by 'official' zoologists on the divisions of these animals. Descriptions often vary depending on the areas in which these animals are found and in consequence views can differ on whether or not they belong to one or two distinct groups. For example, although we here accept that Peale's Porpoise is a different species to the Dusky Dolphin (fortunately it seems both Dr Fraser and BAS zoologists also agree) there are other zoologists who would throw out the species of Peale's saying it was the same as the Dusky Dolphin and should therefore not exist on our list!

From this I believe we can see that a similar situation could occur with art work carried out here. We must be prepared to accept that many of the subjects, although perhaps of the same species, in appearance or colour may vary from those of other regions. Unfortunately, however, we lack Falkland experts to back up such matters.

Yours sincerely,

Dear Brian,

DOLPHINS & PORPOISES ISSUE

Thank you for your letter <sup>(31)</sup> of 28th June.

I passed your comments on to the artist, Mr. Strange, who has sent me a letter in reply, a copy of which I attach.

Mr. Strange has made the amendments to the art work which I now enclose for you to send to Her Majesty the Queen. Incidentally, Mr. Strange considers this the final art work - this does not mean that he is going to call it a day on this, and will naturally undertake any further amendments that are found necessary. Perhaps you would let me know at what stage you normally send art work to Her Majesty.

One point that was not touched on by the Sea Mammal Research Unit of BAS was the killer whale which Mr. Strange considers to be a true dolphin. If you have doubts about the inclusion of this mammal, I should be grateful for your advice.

The artist has not included the Queen's profile, but presumably this is inserted by the printer from the usual profile used on our stamps.

DOLPHINS & PORPOISES STAMP ISSUE

\ PSC design **

... Please find enclosed herewith the 6 designs prepared by Ian Strange which have been submitted to the British Museum for appraisal.

On the whole, it would appear that the B.M. Expert is not tuned in to the same wavelength as Mr Strange and I append the following extract from his letter concerning the designs:

"1 SPELLING Accurate except that Cephalorhynchus commersoni, should have only one 'i'. Although Lagenorhynchus australis is a dolphin as opposed to a porpoise its vernacular name is Peale's porpoise not Peale's dolphin. It has an alternative name of black-chinned dolphin.

But see (31)

Strange says Peale's Porpoise. In Fraser also. BAS say Peale's Dolphin (which it is i.e. a Dolphin)

2 SCIENTIFIC ACCURACY
General remarks In all cases the tail flukes are misshapen. I would query the red colour used in all but one of the illustrations for the eyes, as well as the bright red used for the interior of the mouth of the Killer whale.

Individual comments

- (a) Lagenorhynchus australis Peale's porpoise Flippers and tail flukes too long. White patch by axilla far too big. Dorsal fin should be more upright. Upper jaw gives the impression of being far too broad.
- (b) Lagenorhynchus cruciger Hour-glass dolphin
The black area on the flank should surround the eye, not finish posteriorly to it. The white area on the ventral surface should end by the vent.
- (c) Lagenorhynchus obscurus Dusky dolphin
The outline of the head and mouth is misshapen.
- (d) Cephalorhynchus commersoni Commersons dolphin
Flippers too long and misshapen. Anterior border of white area on flank should stop short of eye dorsally, but cut through axilla laterally.

(e)

7 November 1978

(e) Orcinus orca Killer whale
Outline of whole animal, including dorsal fin, flippers and tail-flukes distorted. There should be teeth in both jaws.

(f) Phocoena dioptrica Spectacled porpoise Lines on tail flukes and flippers give a fin-like appearance (c f fishes). Flippers too far forward.
Point of maximum girth too far forward.

I hope that these comments will be of use in enabling you to obtain more scientifically accurate illustrations."

Perhaps you would care to discuss the matter further with Ian Strange.
If he violently objects to the comments made by the British Museum
I suggest we should refer the designs to the BAS or similar authority to arbitrate.

This will be asked?

I look forward to the return of the designs and your comments and instructions in due course.

Yours sincerely

DOLPHINS AND PORPOISES STAMP ISSUE

In a letter to me dated 7th November <sup>(37)</sup> the Crown Agents Stamp Bureau commented on your art work as in the attached annexure. I attach the art work so that you can see what the British Museum expert is talking about. I am sure this will mean something to you. Whatever your thoughts I am sure you will do your best to produce art work which we can be justifiably proud of and be a good advert for both you and the Falklands.

If you have any preliminary thoughts perhaps you would let me have them before you get too far involved with re-drawing the porpoises and dolphins.

Dear Doug,

STAMP DESIGNS

Thank you for your letters dated 23 and 27 November with enclosures - your references P&T/2/35 and P&T/2/37 respectively.

1. DOLPHINS AND PORPOISES STAMP ISSUE:

I thought we might have a few comments from the British Museum and although some refer to points which might not eventually show on the finished stamps they are helpful.

Regarding some points, colour of eyes for example: these I appreciate do not show as bright red but felt in dealing with such a small image there was some need to emphasise hence the "artist's licence". The red of the Killer whale's mouth was also emphasised, normally it would appear lighter. I see to my horror I missed the bottom teeth out of the animal!

Unfortunately I do not have earlier letters to hand which refer to this difficulty of variations in animals etc., depending on regions, but I feel we might have come up against this problem a little with this issue. However I think we can find a solution and I will do my best to correct the mistakes and incorporate the points made by the British Museum.

Also in one of my early letters dealing with this issue the question arose of correct vernacular naming. I believe I made the point then that there are two schools of thought on such naming, and actually mentioned the Peale's Dolphin and Peale's Porpoise as examples. I personally have always used the name Peale's Porpoise but believe I am correct in saying that one authority corrected us, hence my use of the name Peale's Dolphin on the art work; such is life. If ~~you~~ you do not mind perhaps I can leave you to decide on which name we must eventually use. Perhaps one should decide who is going to be offended least!

One thing which would be most helpful would be a request to the BM asking if they could kindly supply illustrations of the species mentioned. In this way I can see exactly how the various descriptions vary.

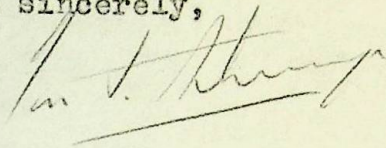

2. MAPS AND CHARTS ISSUE:

The suggestions made by Mike Vaughan I feel are good. The elimination of the black and white border would certainly help as he rightly points out to reduce the "cramped" feeling. I have not been over-keen on the bleeding off effect through the perforation which can be seen on some stamp designs, but in the case of this particular issue it might well produce a nice effect - certainly I would be willing to try this.

The Machin silhouette was shown as I feel it is more in keeping with the designs we are attempting to show. The two examples which were enclosed I felt were too "modern looking" for what might be termed an "antique looking" design. Would it be possible to obtain examples of the Machin silhouette from Mike Vaughan, for the examples of the silhouette used on my rough art work were my own reconstructions of that style and probably far from correct.

Yours sincerely,

I. J. Strange

Dear Mike,

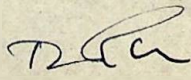

DOLPHINS & PORPOISES STAMP ISSUE

Thank you for your letter <sup>(31)</sup> of 7th November giving us the opinions of the British Museum which I have passed on to Ian Strange.

I think Ian found these a bit confusing, as we ~~had~~ <sup>did</sup> particularly with regard to the Peale's porpoise. You will recall that in your letter <sup>(31)</sup> of 28th June the Sea Mammal Research Unit of the British Antarctic Survey recommended that it should be called Peale's dolphin, which was said to be accepted internationally. However, we shall come to a decision on this and let you know what we decide.

Ian Strange will incorporate the other suggestions made by the British Museum, and in this connection, wonders if it would be possible for you to ask the British Museum if they could supply illustrations of the dolphins and porpoises mentioned so that he could see exactly how the descriptions vary.

3. DOLPHINS AND PORPOISE ISSUE

The designs prepared by Mr. Ian Strange had been returned from the Crown Agents together with their comments. It was noted that no progress could be made until Mr. Strange returned. As some difference of opinion existed over the correct name for the design depicting Peales porpoise which was a true dolphin, it was decided to accept the recommendation of the British Museum that the name "Peales Porpoise" be used which was the vernacular term.

Dear Doug,

Dolphins and Porpoise Stamp Issue.

Further to your letter of 23rd November. Ref P&T/2/33 and the comments made by the British Museum on the art work for the above issue, I am now able to return the completed final art work.

All comments were followed carefully and in one or two cases completely new art work produced to obtain illustrations that are scientifically accurate. However, I would like to add a few points from the design and art angle so that the problems from both sides can be studied.

The Peales Porpoise which have been studied carefully here appear to have a very dull reddy-brown eye, Commerson's is very similar. In order to give what will finally be a very small image some life, red was purposely added to the art work. In the repainted work the reds have been toned down. The same was correct about the mouth of the Killer Whale. However in this case the design has been slightly altered to show the mouth of this animal closed.

One of the main problems facing the actual design work and the requirement to work to a certain size and shape was that a subject which is generally fairly long in proportion to width, had to be fitted to a stamp shape of different proportions. This was particularly so with the Killer Whale and Spectacled porpoise, but I hope the design modifications are now closer. Looking at the BAT "Whale Issue" I imagine the artist had the same problem hence the special shape of that particular stamp issue.

Besides the modifications suggested by the British Museum I elected to make one small design change myself. In the value tablets the size of the "P" has been changed to a slightly smaller size.

As per your instructions the name Peales Dolphin has once again been changed to Peales Porpoise. I certainly agree to this, only hope one of the groups of experts are not too offended !

The six final art works together with art work for the first day cover are enclosed.

Yours faithfully,

I.J.Strange.

Thank you for your letter of 19 March, enclosing the six amended stamp designs from Ian Strange. Please pass my compliments to Ian for the accurate way in which he followed the British Museum's advice for amending his designs; like you, I think the designs are very attractive, and should find a good market.

2 I have sent the designs back to the British Museum, for confirmation that they are now happy with the portrayal. Provided they are happy, I will then send the designs for approval at the Foreign & Commonwealth Office, and then production of bromides. Incidentally, I notice on the photocopy of Ian's letter, which you sent to me, that he has submitted the artwork for the First Day Cover; however, this item did not arrive with the six stamp designs, and I trust you will forward this to me fairly shortly.

3 May I now apologise for the delay in replying to your letter of 11 December 1978, in which you asked whether the British Museum could supply illustrations of the dolphins and porpoises for artists reference. In fact, after a considerable delay, the British Museum advised us that they were unable to help, since their collections of photographs are rather poor, almost entirely composed of black and white prints, mostly of dead animals. They could only advise that there are many popular books on the market nowadays which show colour photographs of live Cetacea.

4 Regarding the Machin silhouette, your letter reference P&T/2/37 dated 11 December 1978, concerning the "Maps and Charts" issue, was in fact answered just before your latest communication (see my letter reference PH1N/FALK IS 7/01831 dated 22 March 1979).

17th April

Mr. I. J. Strange,
Stanley.

Dear Ian,

DOLPHINS AND PORPOISES ISSUE

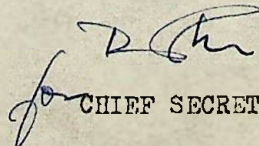

I have been asked by the Crown Agents to pass to you their compliments for the accurate manner in which you have followed the British Museum's advice for amending the designs; the Crown Agents think the designs are very attractive.

The Crown Agents have sent the designs back to the British Museum for confirmation that they are now happy with the portrayal; the designs then go on to the Foreign and Commonwealth Office for their approval before bromides are produced. I had hoped that it would not have been necessary for the designs to have gone back to the British Museum, as we certainly do not want to change the designs again. However, we shall just have to wait and see what comes forward.

The Crown Agents go on to say that they regret that they were unable to obtain from the British Museum any illustrations of dolphins and porpoises for your reference. Apparently the British Museum's collection of photographs are rather poor, almost entirely composed of black and white prints, mostly of dead animals. The British Museum advise that there are many popular books on the market nowadays which show colour photographs of live Cetacea.

Also included in the Crown Agents letter was notification that they intend formally to commission you for the future "Birds" issue.

Yours sincerely,

for CHIEF SECRETARY

3. DOLPHINS AND PORPOISE ISSUE

The designs prepared by Mr. Ian Strange had been returned from the Crown Agents together with their comments. It was noted that no progress could be made until Mr. Strange returned. As some difference of opinion existed over the correct name for the design depicting the Peales porpoise which was a true dolphin, it was decided to accept the recommendation of the British Museum that the name "Peales Porpoise" be used which was the vernacular term.

1.12 Dolphins and Porpoise Issue - 1980

No progress report has been received from the Crown Agents. If nothing is received shortly it was agreed to enquire the position by telegram.

DOLPHINS & PORPOISES

I would like to give you the results of the tenders recently received for printing the above stamp issue.

Walsall:	.....	£4,305	Despatch 23 October
Harrison:	.....	£4,288	Despatch 16 October
Questa:	.....	£4,944	Despatch 8 October
Secura:	.....	£6,287	Despatch 19 October
Waddington:	Declined to quote
Format:	Declined to quote
Enschede:	Were unable to view artwork in time.

2 All of the above prices include cost of paper, but none of them apart from Secura include cost of despatch.

3 As usual, we cannot predict the date when the "A.E.S." will sail, but on the assumption that there is approximately 3 months between sailings, the next sailing after delivery by these firms is likely to be at the end of December. I would therefore be grateful if you could confirm that we may hold the stamps until this vessel arrives, bearing in mind that it is the first release in your 1980 programme. Perhaps you can bear this in mind when setting a definite release date, since release late February/early March may save considerable expense.

4 I have awarded the contract to Harrison & Sons Ltd., who have the best price and a very reasonable delivery.

Subject:- Dolphins and Porpoise Stamp Issue

With reference to our telephone conversation early this morning please find attached a photocopy of the brief itineraries of John Biscoe and Bransfield for this summer.

In view of the Crown Agents advising that the stamps for the above issue would be ready for despatch on 16th October it would appear far more convenient to arrange to have them shipped on the John Biscoe than the December AES. We would then have ample time to prepare the First Day Covers and release the issue in early February, which I believe is the Postmasters intention.

Dear Mike,

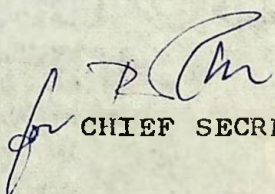

DOLPHINS AND PORPOISES

I agree with the tender going to Harrison's for £4,288 and hope they will do a good job for us.

2. With regard to the forwarding of the stamps I attach a copy of the itineraries of the B.A.S. vessels from which you will see that the John Biscoe leaves U.K. on 13th November and arrives here a month later. This is better than waiting on the "A.E.S." and gives our Post Office more time to prepare covers etc. for release early in February.

Subject:-

Dolphins & Porpoise Issue

The Crown Agents telex of 2nd <sup>ALLS</sup> instant refers.

Certainly we should accept this offer. At current exchange rates this would nett us £330. In view of the Bureau's present heavy programme, more so during the next couple of months I am sure we would be unable to undertake this task during office hours. There appears to be no reason why we should not offer this project on an overtime basis, which could still nett us about £250.

Regarding the delivery of the covers by airfreight, Vice Comodoro Canosa informs me that all Argentine Airline offices throughout the world have now had their instruction booklets amended so that charges for airfreight destined for the Falklands can now be paid in full rather than just to B Aires. This particular dealer should be advised to ensure freight charges are paid in full for the entire journey of the freight or it may be better to have them posted by airparcel.

My memorandum of 24th <sup>31</sup> August refers.

Advice has been received to the effect that the John Biscoe will not now be arriving in Stanley until 14th January, 1980. Although this is a month later than originally planned this delay should not affect the FDC stamp affixing programme in view of the now revised release date of this issue.

If further delays are experienced regarding the sailing of the John Biscoe we should arrange to have the stamps airposted.

DOLPHINS AND PORPOISES

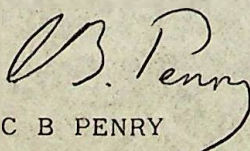

I have now received running proofs of your above issue from Harrisons, and consider these proofs to be satisfactory.
... One set is enclosed herewith for your retention. We are planning to despatch these stamps on the 'John Biscoe', due to sail in early December; however, since the vessel is undergoing trials at the moment, we do not have a definite despatch date yet, and we will be contacted by the British Antarctic Survey as soon as they are ready to receive stamps from the printers.

2 Incidentally, you will have noticed from the colour proofs that the Machin portrait of Her Majesty was used, rather than your Goaman portrait; we did not mention this at the time, for which I apologise.

3 The printers used the Machin portrait because it has lighter edges, and more pronounced colour gradations, whereas the Goaman portrait would have merged into the dark background at the left-hand edge.

4 I am sure you will agree that the stamps look equally as attractive with this portrait. One set of the revised bromides, used for publicity purposes, will follow shortly,

Yours sincerely

Dear Sir

ISSUE : DOLPHINS/PORPOISES

Further to our cable dated 2 November we now write to confirm that Franklin Mint have purchased 11,000 of the 6p, 11p and 25 pence values of the above issue and affix to their own covers before despatching to you for First Day of Issue cancellation as specified in our cable 2 November. 45

2 In your reply cable you agreed to affix the stamps in return for a fee of  $2\frac{1}{2}$  U S Cents whereas we were requesting your agreement to service the covers with First Day of Issue cancellation but assume, correctly we hope, that this was indeed what you meant but would be grateful for your confirmation. You also stated in your cable that the sender should pay Air Freight charges for journey through to the Falkland Islands and not Buenos Aires, alternatively they should send covers by Air parcel post; we have passed on this information although we feel that due to the quantity of covers involved it would be more economical to despatch the consignment by Air Freight on this occasion.

3 We have been advised the covers may not be ready until the first week of March and you may now wish to reconsider your agreement to service the covers for Franklin Mint but we look forward to receiving your early reply on this subject.

4 If you are still willing to service the covers then we would be grateful if you could return the fully serviced covers, with fine cancellations, to the following address on an Air Freight collect basis;

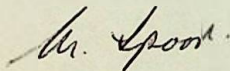

Franklin Mint
c/o Wolf De Barth
Customs Broker
Philadelphia P A

and advise us of the despatch details.

5 The cancellation fee of  $2\frac{1}{2}$  U S Cents per cover will be credited to your account in full, (Crown Agents do not deduct commission on these charges) when the covers have been returned to Franklin Mint.

6 Your co-operation is very much appreciated.

Dear Sir

ISSUE : DOLPHINS/PORPOISES

We acknowledge with thanks the receipt of your cable dated 13 February in which you have kindly agreed to the cancellation of 11,300 private covers bearing the 6p value of the Dolphins/Porpoises stamp issue for Glendinning, a dealer in the USA.

2 They will affix the stamps to their own covers before despatching to you for First Day of Issue cancellation. The fully serviced covers, with fine cancellations should be returned to the following address on an Air Freight collect basis:

Glendinning
c/o Stangib Ltd
c/o Freight Brokers Inc
147-24, 176th Street (Jamaica)
New York 11434
USA.

3 It would be appreciated if you could advise us of the details of despatch when the covers are being returned, ie Flight Number and Airway Bill Number, this will enable us to credit your account with the agreed cancellation fee of five US cents per cover; this is credited to your account in full. Crown Agents do not deduct commission on these fees. This project is in addition to the one already confirmed in my letter dated 8 January concerning 33,000 private covers for Franklin Mint, agreement to service these covers was received from you in your cables of 13 November 1979 and 22 January 1980.

4 Many thanks for your co-operation, we trust the increased revenue gained from the projects will more than compensate for the extra work involved.

Yours faithfully
