It will be necessary to continue using the G.R. as the letters cannot be removed locally.
They could of course be sent to England but I should prefer sending a cable for those which were ordered see note (2) of mt. 1/7/36 attached & referred to in note (20) in the same mt.

I am not quite clear as to why the

The G.R. can be removed but it does not make for very clear printing as there will probably be a severe white hole.

A sample die is sent herewith.

Sir,

With reference to the late Viscount (then Mr.) Harcourt's Circular despatch of the 18th of June, 1913, I have the honour to inform you that His Majesty the King has recently approved of the adoption of new designs of the Royal Arms as illustrated on the accompanying sheet, for use on Government publications.

2. Instructions, of which copies are enclosed, to regulate the sizes of the designs to be used on Government publications in this country have been issued by the Controller of the Stationery Office.

I have the honour to be,

Sir,

Your most obedient, humble servant,

L. S. AMERY.

Gentlemen,

New Royal Arms.

I am directed to enclose for your information specimens of the new Royal Arms which it is intended to substitute forthwith for the design hitherto in use on Official publications and forms, and to inform you that the Controller is prepared to supply for use in connection with the Contracts for Government printing already held by you, one original zincograph each of various sizes of the new designs, from which reproductions for use may be made.

Although no definite rule can be laid down the following statement will serve generally as a guide to the sizes to be used in the future:

In wrappers and title-pages of books and pamphlets-

Royal quarto.....	No. 5
Foolscap folio and demy quarto.....	" 6
Crown quarto and imperial octavo.....	" 7
Foolscap quarto and royal octavo.....	" 8
Demy and Crown octavo.....	" 9
Foolscap octavo.....	" 10
Demy sixteenmo.....	" 11

IN POSTERS - Nos. 1 to 4, according to size of poster.

IN JOBWORK FORMS - Nos. 5 to 16, according to size of form and space available. No. 17 will be used only in exceptional cases where space will not permit of No. 16 being used.

In wrappers and title-pages the Royal Arms should as a general rule appear at the head of the page and preceding the title of the work. Where it is desired that the Royal Arms should appear between the title of the work and the imprint, Nos. 12 to 16 will be the more suitable design for use in such cases.

The Royal Arms should appear on all papers "Presented to Parliament by Command of His Majesty" and on all Stationery Office publications, with certain exceptions which will be indicated from time to time on the "copy". It should NOT appear on papers ordered to be printed by either House of Parliament. In other cases and in jobwork forms the Arms should appear only when shown or indicated on the "copy".

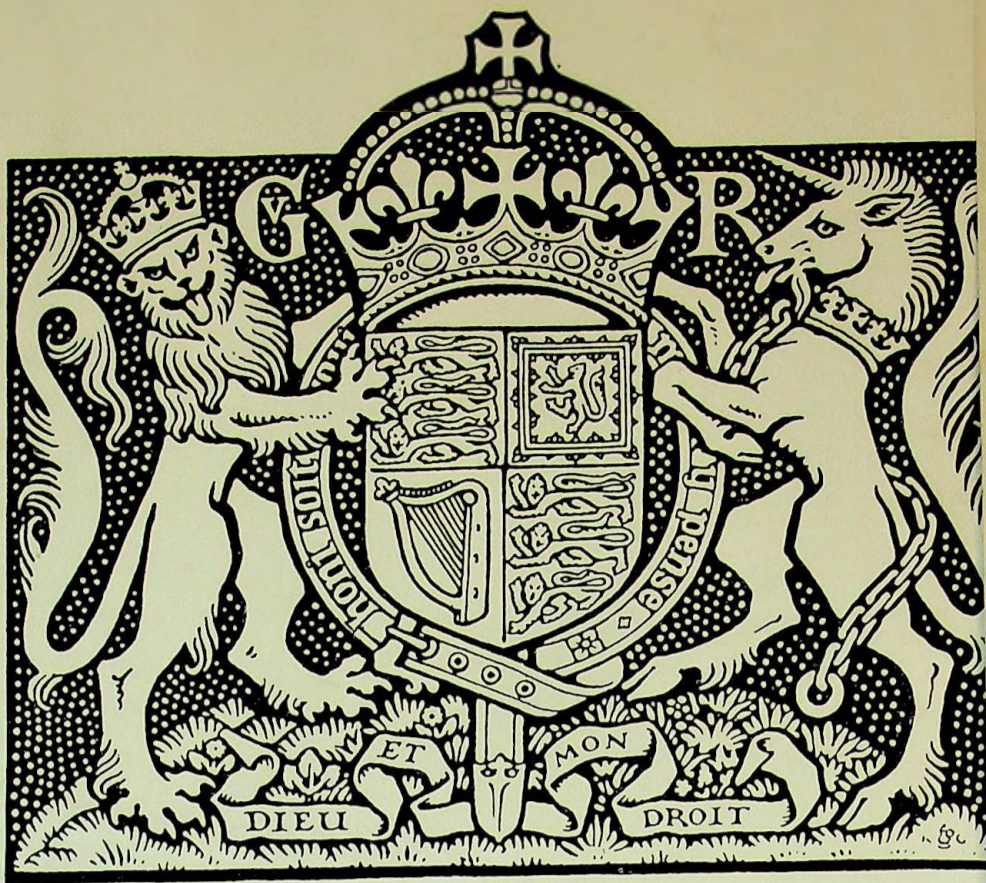

I am therefore to request that you will forward as early as possible, particulars of the sizes of zincographs you will require to carry out the work under your Contracts, in order that the necessary originals may be sent to you.

Subsequent supplies of originals may be obtained from the usual trade sources.

Yours faithfully,
